NAZIS CLAIM 13 SHIPS SUNK IN ONE CONVOY

STORY ON PAGE 2

13 SHIPS IN CONVOY SUNK, NAZIS CLAIM

BERLIN, Feb. 13 (AP)—The German high command announced today 13 armed British merchantmen laden with war supplies had been sunk in the Atlantic by German warships.

Some official sources here called it "probably the most successful attack on a convoy in naval history."

"Among them," the daily communique declared, "were several large transatlantic steamers loaded to capacity with war material for England."

The claim that the attack was the most successful in naval history hardly jibes with the sensational assertions in Berlin last November of a similar attack in which an entire convoy of 15 to 20 ships, totaling 86,000 tons, was claimed to have been destroyed. London later reported that of the 38 ships in that convoy, 32 made port safely, due to heroism of the crew on one British ship, the Jervis Bay, which held off the raiders until the convoy had scattered and went down with all its guns blazing. —Editor's Not).

SHIPS NOT NAMED

A spokesman said the Germans, in speaking of a transatlantic steamer, usually visualize a vessel of at least 20,000 tons. The tonnage and names of ships reported sunk were not made public and the type of warships particlpated was not disclosed.

A German radio broadcast heard in New York after the Nazi communique was issued said that total losses of the convoy were some 50,000 tons, of which it said 29,500 tons of ships had been sunk outright and 20,000 tons set afire or badly damaged.

London circles said today that word had been received of an attack on a convoy, but that no details were available. The informants said ships of the convoy scattered and that, until the various craft were heard from, it would be impossible to report the result.—Editor's note.

Other far-ranging Nazi aircraft have caused "severe paralyzation" of ship traffic in the Suez canal, today's communique said. In addition to two ships previously re-

U. S. Warns All Americans to Quit Far East in Crisis

SHANGHAI, Feb. 13 (AP)—United States embassies and consulates sent out circulars today "urgently" advising withdrawal to the United States of American women, children and non-essential men from China, Indo-China and the Japanese empire.

The circulars were sent "both in the interests of safety and convenience of American nationals and in the interests of national security," it was announced.

A sharp drop in the Shanghai stock market accompanied this renewal of U. S. government advice for American departures.

The "further and necessary" advice to Americans to leave for home was given, the circulars said, in accordance with the U. S. State Department's evacuation suggestion of last October.

Americans were urged to take advantage of existing shipping facilities. The circulars said the State Department "does not contemplate sending a special vessel or vessels to assist in withdrawals."

Simultaneously, it was reported British women and children have been leaving Shanghai and other points in the Far East.

The British have not issued official advice to nationals to evacuate, but it was stated authoritatively they were taking an increasingly serious view of the situation, with Japan steadily increasing her land, sea and air forces within striking distance of Singapore.

F. D. SEES NO WAR

Financial circles said the stock market break was caused by reports published in native language newspapers that President Roosevelt had declared war in the Pacific was "inevitable."

Actually, President Roosevelt, when asked at a press conference

VICHY, France, Feb. 13—Fresh from a meeting with Premier Mussolini at Bordighera, Generalissimo Francisco Franco of Spain held a conference fith French Chief of State Marshal Henri Philippe Petain at Montpellier today.

This conference, as well as that in Italy, was called at the initiative of Nazi Germany. It is expected to have a profound effect upon the future of the war.

It is a foregone conclusion, in the opinion of well-qualified sources in Vichy, that important developments in the Mediterranean area will result.

There is no longer any question, according to this view, that Germany is doing everything in its power to enlist the full aid of Spain in an "all-out" attempt to crush England and the British Empire.

Tempting lures are being dangled before Franco—the El Caudillo of totalitarian Spain—in exchange for this participation. Possession of Gibraltar and permanent satisfaction of Spanish territorial claims in Tangier and elsewhere, plus readjustment of the long-disputed Moroccan boundaries, are included.

FOOD SCARCE

But from what I gathered during my recent trip through Spain, any attempt to drag that nation into the war in the form of out-

BRITAIN AID BILL WINS COMMITTEE O.K. 15 TO 8

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 (AP)—The Senate foreign relations committee today approved, 15 to 8, the administration's aid-to-Britain bill.

The legislation was approved in substantially the form voted by the House. It now goes to the Senate floor for debate, which will start Monday and which leaders hope to restrict to two weeks.

The committee acted finally after rejecting a proposal by Senators Johnson (R.) California and Ellender (D.) Louisiana to restrict the President's authority to send American armed forces out of the Western Hemisphere.

WILLKIE PLAN IGNORED

The committee rejected also an amendment proposed by Sen. McNary (R.) Oregon which would have stated specifically that any ships transferred to foreign countries must be returned.

No amendment was put forward in the committee on Wendell L. Willkie's suggestion that aid under the elgislation be limited to Britain, China and Greece.

The British aid bill would permit the President to transfer, lease or lend war materials to nations whose defense he considers vital to the security of the United States. Transfers of existing equipment would be limited to $1,300,000,000 and could be made by the President only after consultation with Army and Navy chiefs.

The measure also would authorize the repair or reoutfitting of belligerent ships in American yards and would permit the President to communicate "defense information" to warring "democracies."

TIME LIMIT FIXED

No appropriation is included in the measure, but the President is expected to ask funds for its operation immediately.

Under the bill, he also could obtain congressional authority from time to time to make future contracts. Funds for these would be requested after the contracts were made.

The legislation would expire July 1, 1943, and all contracts executed under it would terminite by July 1, 1946.

Among other so-called congressional "safeguards" was a provision giving Congress power to terminate operation of the bill at any time by a majority vote, a clause requiring presidential progress reports every 90 days a statement that nothing in the act should authorize American naval convoys of war material shipments or the entry of Hub Widow's Daughter to be M. P.

NEW YORK, Feb. 13 (AP)—Mrs. Beatrice Clough Rathbone, American-born widow of a British flying officer who was a Conservative member of Parliament, has cabled a kinsman here she is about to succeed to her husband's seat in Commons.

If elected, she would be the second U. S.-born M. P. Viscountess Astor, a native of Virginia, has served in Parliament since 1919.

Death in action of the airman, John Rankin Rathbone, was announced last month, and shortly thereafter Mrs. Rathbone, a native of New Haven, Ct., cabled she was to be named for his place. A second cable on Feb. 5 announced her "unanimous and unopposed adoption," which meant she would be automatically elected.

She has two children, John, Jr., 7, and Pauline, 5, who are staying here "for the duration" with her uncle, Paul L. Hammond.

Mrs. Rathbone, an attractive woman of about 30, is the only daughter of Mrs. F. Roland Clough of Harvey Fiek & Son.

She was born in New Haven, but passed much of her childhood in China, where her father's business had taken him.

She was graduated from the Ethel Walker School in Simsbury, Ct., and in 1932, married Rathbone in Boston.

Red Spy Exposures Now Believed Cause Of Krivitsky's Death

WASHINGTON Feb. 13—Exposure of Red spies in this country, and especially waring England and Canada, was seen today as the self-appointed mission which brought death to Gen. Walter Krivitsky, ex-Stalinist spy chief.

High Washington officials, who knew him well and depended on him to check Stalin's spy system here, so declared as Washington police wrote off Krivitsky's death in a Capitol hotel room as suicide.

But whether it was suicide or forced death by the dread Soviet OGPU it was revealed today that the former Russian general was responsible for jailing of hundreds of Communist agents during recent months in Canada and England.

His revelations also are known to have sent FBI agents on the trail of scores of Red agents in this country—trails which became so hot they slipped over into Mexico.

The suicide verdict—one ardently disputed by those who knew Krivitsky best—came from Lieut. George Darnell, chief of the Washington police homicide squad, after questioning of the two friends who last saw him alive.

They are Mrs. Margaret Dobert, 30, and Eitel Dobert, her husband, a Nazi refugee, with whom he spent the Sunday before his death.

BROKE SPY RING

However, agents and authorities who thus far have remained in the background declared today that Krivitsky's recent activities in Canada had all but destroyed Stalin's mighty spy system.

He knew the Red agents—once

BLIND WIFE WINS $15,000 LOVE BALM

The asserted lost love of Mrs. Anna E. O'Meara, blind wife of Somerville, was valued today at $15,000 in a sealed verdict returned by a Middlesex Superior Court jury and opened today.

When the verdict in the $50,000 alienation of affections suit brought by Mrs. O'Meara against Miss Helen Mugar, Watertown market cashier, was opened, Mrs. O'Meara and a number of relatives were in the courtroom.

Except for quick smiles breaking out among the group, there was no sign of excitement, but in the corridor a few minutes later there was an unmistakable air of happiness and satisfaction.

DEFENDANT ABSENT

Neither Miss Mugar nor John J. O'Meara, the husband whose love she allegedly stole, was present when the verdict was read to Judge Frank J. Donahue.

The jury took the case yesterday and deliberated only an hour and 50 minutes. As Judge Donahue had been compelled to leave court on draft board business, however, the verdict was sealed for opening today.

Although the verdict awarded Mrs. O'Meara the flat sum of $15,000 in the alienation of affections charge, the jury cleared Miss Mugar in the other charge contained in the suit—a morals charge involving O'Meara.

During the trial of the suit, a detective testified that he trailed O'Meara and Miss Mugar to the reservoir at Southboro and spied upon them for more than two hours while they hugged and kissed.

HILLTOP TRYST CHARGED

The detective said that after displaying affection in Miss Mugar's parked automobile in a sandpit, the couple left the car, climbed the reservoir hill with a robe, and then reclined on it, continuing their love-making.

Both O'Meara and Miss Mugar, however, insisted on the witness stand that he had tried to kiss her but that she had repulsed him.

Mrs. O'Meara testified that on one occasion she waited for the market cashier to return to her Watertown home from work and then asked Miss Mugar to give up O'Meara but that Miss Mugar replied:

"I'm of age. I can do what I want and I won't give him up."

MARY X. SULLIVAN PLAYS BADMINTON
Helps Her Toward Goal of 109 Lbs.

'I'M GOING TO LOSE TWENTY POUNDS'

By MARY X. SULLIVAN

Cheer with me! Shout, yell and be happy with me! Today I'm down to 112 pounds!

Only three more pounds off me here and there and I'll be down to the goal I set myself when I started to take off weight at 129 pounds!

Yesterday I took off a slight amount of the excess avoirdupois I had carried around for years—but I had so much fun doing it I must tell you about it.

It began in the afternoon when, faithful to my gymnasium instructor, I went to the Alexander studio for my exercises.

Completing them, I felt so good I thought I should gallop right back to the office and write my story.

But when I got back to the office there was a girl friend of mine and a nice young man I know. I had an invitation to go over to the Badminton and Health Club to try my hand, and as it turned out, my feet, as well.

I felt so swell that I gladly joined the party. We walked, and I may say with my short stride I practically ran, from Winthrop sq. to the Badminton and Health Club in Oliver st.

I looked in for a moment on the beautifully lighted courts and watched several athletic young men bouncing about and having a great time for themselves.

My girl friend and I got into our gym togs and were introduced to Al Dover, club instructor. He took us to a court and, after teaching us the intricacies of the game, left us to ourselves.

Let me tell you, badminton is a weight-reducer. We huffed and

3rd Hotel Bandit Gets 6-10 Years

Matthew McGrath of the South End, one of three men who held up Sherman Bird, night manager of the Hotel Somerset, and robbed him of $981 on Dec. 8, was sentenced to 6 to 10 years in State Prison today.

Judge Edward F. Hanify pronounced sentence in Suffolk Superior Court.

William G. McGrath, 26, also of the South End and Matthew's brother, and Charles J. Schena, 27, of Charlestown, were sentenced four days ago to 8 to 12 years.

Man Drops Dead After Seeking Prison Lodging

Defeat stamped on his face, a man giving the name of Franklin Jackson, 56, and stating that he had no home, walked into City Prison today and asked for lodging.

He had hardly voiced his appeal when he collapsed. He was rushed to City Hospital, reached there at 7:18 and was pronounced dead at 7:43. The authorities have no clue to relatives.

STORK VISITS HUGH BANCROFTS, JR.

Cohasset Socialite-Actress Mother of Girl

MRS. HUGH BANCROFT, JR.

An 8½-pound girl was born at midnight to Mrs. Hugh Bancroft, Jr., of Sohier rd., Cohasset, the former Brookline socialite-actress Bettina Gray, in Richardson House, Boston Lying-in Hospital.

The Bancroft-Gray wedding Feb. 11, 1939, was a fashionable afternoon event at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Gray, in Willard rd., Brookline.

The bride was a debutante of the 1933-34 season and met Bancroft, scion of a wealthy Cohasset family, society horseman and gentleman farmer, while she was playing in summer stock in Cohasset. In August, 1939, she appeared in "Our Town" with the South Shore Players in Cohasset.

Mrs. Bancroft attended the Erskine School and studied dramatics. Later she went abroad and continued her preparation for the stage by studying under Mme. Richard at Salzburg, Austria.

Last February, while movie cameras ground, she alighted, mink-clad, at a crowded Cohasset station in a make-believe triumphant return from Hollywood. The film was a part of "Mary Brown of Cohasset," a combined musical comedy and movie, in which Mrs. Bancroft played the leading role, put on for the benefit of the infantile paralysis fund.

Hundreds of Aged Hear Fiery Words Over Pension Lottery

Hundreds of white-haired men and women, some of them hale and some feeble, some cheerful and some sad—but all hopeful—crowded Gardner auditorium at the State House today to hear impassioned pleas for and against establishing a state lottery.

Many of the aged wore handbills pinned to dresses or coat lapels. The handbills bore the words:

"Give Us This Day, Our Daily Bread."

For five measures were being argued, each of which claimed the way best to provide a $10 weekly boost in each Old Age pension.

George Cook, representing the Massachusetts Civic League, quoted letters opposing a State lottery from Cardinal O'Connell, Bishop Lawrence and Rabbi Levi A. Olan of Worcester.

The Cardinal O'Connell letter was one of several years ago, when the dean of the American hierarchy opposed a lottery.

LEADERS IN OPPOSITION

Opposed as well were the Boston Chamber of Commerce, the Massachusetts Parent-Teachers' Ass'n, League of Women Voters, Federation of Taxpayers' Ass'ns, Council of Churches, State Federation of Women's Clubs, Association of Savings Bank Women and other similar groups.

In dismay, these aged hopefuls heard the name of the churchmen and of the civic and state groups.

They had been cheered as speakers, not long before, had declaimed the merits of the bills that would "drive the racketeers out of the state," would "eliminate many taxes," and provide "much new revenue."

How the tide would turn before the arguments were done before the joint legislative ways and means committee, none of the hopefuls knew.

VOTERS INDORSED PLAN

They could only see a possible $10-a-week increase in their incomes by means of this proposed state lottery—a proposition that had been indorsed last November by a majority of voters in 30 of 40 senatorial districts.

Rep. Alfred M. Bessette (R.) of New Bedford was first to argue the merits of his particular plan.

He claimed the tSate would get some $25,000,000 annually from a State lottery scheme, would cut all taxes and even eliminate some excises.

SEES RACKETS DOOMED

"It will help do away with crime, for it will put the racketeers out of the lottery business," Rep. Bessette declared.

"Millions of illegal lottery tickets are being purchased in this state, although the state gets none of the revenue.

"A legalized lottery is no worse than 'beano' parties sponsored by the churches."

Former Lt.-Gov. Francis E. Kelly, author of a second of the state lottery measures, echoed the thought that a state lottery would outwit racketeers.

"More than $200,000,000 could be raised each year," he asserted. "Even now figures show that $10,000,000 is wagered on dog and horse tracks and I venture to say that twice that sum or more is handled illegally by bookies or number pools.

SAYS 800,000 FAVORED

"More than 800,000 persons voted for a lottery and only about 300,000 voted against it.

"That's the answer to organizations like the Massachusetts Civic League and to organizations which think they are bigger than the people.

"Everyone gambles. You men gambled when you put your name on the ballot that you would win. You gamble when you go into business for yourself. And you gamble when you take a wife—gamble for a chance at happiness."

George Washington, Kelly declared, once advocated a lottery to build the national capitol at Washington, and Massachusetts once ran a lottery to clothe the Bay State unit of the Contiental Army.

Charles C. O'Connell of Lynn, president of the Massachusetts Society for Old Age Pensions, was sponsor of two measures and Sen. P. Eugene Casey of Milford authored another.

All five bills were similar in proposing the lottery commission be composed of three members, responsible to the governor and executive council.

IDNAP TOLD
N GIRL AT ITTACK TRIAL

ALEM, Feb. 13—"I was crying the time, and I never stopped til my brother came for me a wk later," Pauline Aiello, 19, of Washington st., Gloucester, central fare in the allege dattack and duction case now on trial in Ess County Superior Court, testiid today in denial she "was makk merry" while away from home. The girl was under cross-examiation by Atty. John Burke as the tal of three fishing boat captains ad two oyung married women confinued.

The defendants are Salvatori Parisi, 30, and Philip Filetto, 37, bth of Commercial st.; Salvatore Nicastro, 31, and his wife, Mary, 2, of Curcuru st., and Mrs. Florence Curcuru, 22, of Commercial st.

Parisi, according to the girl's testimony, attacked her after her wrists were tied to a bed after she had been abducted and driven to a summer camp in West Gloucester last December.

REFUSED TO WED

She said she told her sister later over the telephone from Bay City, Mich., where she charges Parisi had forced her to go with him, that she wouldn't marry him. She pleaded that her family get her and take her home.

Mrs. Ann F. Thomas of Gould st., Gloucester, testified that while walking along Middle st. on the night of Dec. 23 she saw a car with two men inside pull up on the sidewalk 50 feet in fhont of her.

"I heard a thin childish voice screaming," she said.

She said she then walked toward the car. It was "streamlined and had a lot of nickel trimming on it." She took the registration number.

Then seh saw a girl's legs dangling from the rear seat.

"I screamed, 'Her legs are dangling.'"

TELLS OF DRIVER

The witness said she saw the face of the driver and said it "resembled that man,"—pointing out Filetto.

Police Sergt. Edmund T. Cronin of Gloucester testified Pauline identified Filetto as the driver of the kidnap car and as the man who tied her up, and Nicastro as the man who dragged her into the automobile.

Wakefield Girl, 8, Saved From Ice Hole

Eight-year-old Martha Sardella, daughter of Mrs. Rose Sardella of West Water st., Wakefield, today owed her life to heroism of J. E. Gibson, Jr., of Vernon st., Wakefield, who pulled her to safety from a hole in Lake Quannapowitt, Wakefield.

The girl skated into a hole made by ice harvesters, and Gibson, who was driving past, noticed her plight and dragged her out. After treatment at the Wakefield police station, she was permitted to go home.

Death Takes Laddie; 7th Division Mourns

MONTEREY, Cal., Feb. 13 (AP)—Ten-year-old Laddie, his canine heart weakened by grief, died today at the Monterey presidio—four days after the 2000-mile flight which brought him to his beloved master, a private at Fort Ord.

Dr. R. I. Lovell, veterinarian for the 7th Division, said the Airedale's death was due to heart collapse and old age.

Pvt. Everett Scott, whose departure from a Chanute, Kan., farm to serve in the Army caused Laddie to begin a self-imposed fast, was on duty when his faithful friend died.

Laddie arrived Monday by plane from Kansas City in a clothes basket, wrapped in blankets and hot water bottles.

Scott, given special leave to meet his dog, looked hesitatingly into the basket, said softly:

"Laddie, old boy, you don't look so good."

Laddie didn't. He had lost 15 of his 40 pounds in three months and was unable to stand alone.

But he perked up, began to eat again and for a time it seemed that Scott's almost pleading comment to his soldier-buddies at the reunion would come true. He had said:

"We'll get him well again, won't we, fellows?"

Tuesday and Wednesday, the aging dog was given blood transfusions, intravenous injections and vitamin B-1, brandy, milk and broth. He took a few wobbly steps unassisted.

He already had been chosen as mascot for the entire 7th Division of 15,000 men. There were plenty of the choicest rabbits all set to be chased around the Army reservation.

But it wasn't to be—and even the 75 other camp mascots whose blood was offered to save the dog from Kansas were to no avail.

There was mourning at Ft Ord today.

Smokers know...

Chesterfields Satisfy

WITH THEIR MILDER BETTER TASTE

Do you know why Chesterfield gives you more pleasure? Because it's the smoker's cigarette . . . it has everything a smoker wants . . . Real Mildness and a Cooler, Better Taste.

Chesterfields are better-tasting and mild...not flat...not strong, because of their right combination of the world's best cigarette tobaccos. You can't buy a better cigarette.

Valentine Greetings from ELLEN DREW, starring in the current Paramount hit "THE MAD DOCTOR"...and from CHESTERFIELD, the Milder, Cooler, Better-Tasting cigarette.

They're MILDER. Before auction time Chesterfield's expert tobacco buyers look over the growing crops so they will know firsthand where the finest mild, ripe leaf is coming from. The way these tobaccos are conditioned, aged and blended gives Chesterfields a better taste and makes them definitely milder.

Do you smoke the cigarette that Satisfies....it's the smoker's cigarette

FIRE SWEEPS DANISH SHIP AT BATTERY WHARF BERTH

A spectacular fire of mysterious origin today swept the interned Danish freighter Rita Maersk at its berth in Battery Wharf and threatened valuable waterfront property.

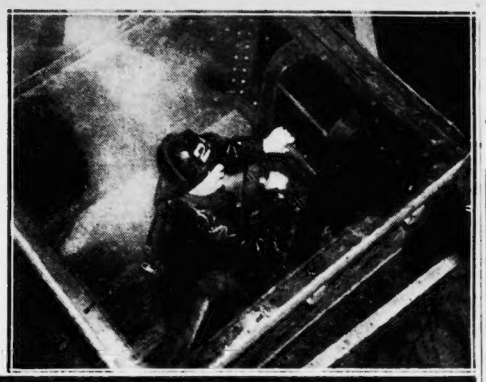
Thick clouds of smoke poured from hatches as firemen from the dock and two fireboats poured tons of water into the flaming interior. Two tugs stood by ready to pull the ship into the harbor if the wharf were menaced.

The fire was believed to have started in an engine room and raced through space below decks, igniting a deposit of oil used to keep up steam.

Most of the ship's cargo was transferred ashore months ago before the federal government ordered the ship interned shortly after the invasion of Denmark by Germany early last spring.

Fifteen members of the crew still stationed in the aft section of the ship hastily leaped to shore with the aid of police and firemen. Most returned to aid in the fire-fighting.

Firemen were forced to don masks to reach the hatches and hold the flames below decks. Others directed streams of water from towers on the fireboats Angus J. MacDonald and John P. Dowd.



MYSTERY FIRE — Danish freighter Rita Maersk is swept by spectacular fire at its berth at Battery wharf today . . . and here a fireman goes down into the hold.

VERMONT RAILROAD CITES DEFENSE PERIL IN PLEA ON STRIKE THREAT

National defense today was menaced by strikes and threatening strikes, with the walk-out called for tomorrow on the Rutland, Vt., railroad considered of major importance.

Seeking to avert the strike of 1300 railroad employes, Gov. Wills of Vermont appealed to Washington. He declared the trouble "important nationally and internationally at this time."

Union heads ordered the men to leave their post tomorrow over a wage reduction ordered for the day following by officials of the road.

The railroad links New York and Boston to Montreal and is now in receivership. Concern was expressed that the road might never resume operations if the walk-out occurs.

MUST MEET CONDITIONS

Another development saw an outbreak of violence at the site of construction of the Battery-Brooklyn Tunnel in New York, where two AFL unions are waging a jurisdictional dispute. Policemen carried on a running battle with pickets in which stones, fists, eggs and clubs flew for half an hour.

In Miami, where the AFL Executive Council is meeting, William L. Hutcheson, president of the Carpenters Union, commented on the no-strike policy recently adopted by the building trades department with the explanation that "we simply agree not to strike on defense projects where our local work conditions are met." He added that "this no-strike policy doesn't mean we're throwing overboard what we've taken years to build."

A second day of conferences in Washington apparently brought no nearer settlement the CIO strike at the Allis-Chalmers Co. in Milwaukee. The company has $45,000,000 of military orders.

OTHER DEFENSE UPSETS

Another conference, in Akron, sought to avert a CIO strike called for today at the Seiberling Rubber Co., which has extensive orders for bullet-sealing tires and tubes and gas mask parts.

Two new CIO strikes occurred at the Youngstown Metal Products Co. at Youngstown, O., and at the Quincy Mining Co.'s copper works in Hancock, Mich. Both involved wage disputes.

Still another CIO strike was threatened for today at the American Car & Foundry plant in Berwick, Pa., where the union seeks wage adjustments, a union shop and group insurance. The company has contracts for several million dollars worth of army tanks.

Buick SPECIAL 4-door Sedan, model 47, $1021.★

Here are FOUR NEW ADDITIONS to the BUICK SPECIAL Line that Compact Motorcar Bigness into Handy Size

TIME was when you measured a car's ability and standing by the yardstick distance from bumper to bumper.

But not any more — not entirely.

Not since Buick made ready the four new additions to its 1941 SPECIAL series that are built for big-car travel tastes — and small-car garages!

They are cars to take the measure of almost anything on the road in the lift and life of their 115-hp. Buick FIREBALL engines.*

They are cars with room for all the family, with all the little Buick luxury touches, with the unrivaled comfort of Buick's all-coil springing and steady-going roadability.

But bumper to bumper they are shorter — so they fit your garage, park like a bicycle and flit through traffic with ridiculous ease.

And they go farther on every gallon — farther, even, than other Buicks.

So you can't take their measure with a yardstick.

You've got to measure them by what they do for you — in the easier handling, the bigger thrill, the extra convenience they add.

And when you hear the prices on them — prices made lower by their new compactness—you'll find they measure up plenty BIG in the dollar-for-dollar value they put within your reach.

How about seeing them — now?

*Add Compound Carburetion at slight extra cost and horsepower steps up to 125 while gasoline mileage goes even higher.

BUICK PRICES BEGIN AT $915 for the Business Coupe

★delivered at Flint, Mich. State tax, optional equipment and accessories — extra. Prices subject to change without notice.

WHEN BETTER AUTOMOBILES ARE BUILT BUICK WILL BUILD THEM

GRAFT HINTED IN $125,000 CAPE ROAD

Public Works Commr. Herman A. MacDonald today boxed a neat compass around the names of executive council members who might have had a $125,000 state road built to a private real estate development in Falmouth—and left only one name in the box.

But he refused to bring that name out for public inspection.

In a speech before the Beverly Chamber of Commerce last night, MacDonald described a beautiful highway, twice as wide as a state highway, with a 40-foot concrete bridge, leading only to a real estate development owned by a member of the executive council.

The road had been built out of state funds.

"I thought of the hysteria of an invasion by the Germans," MacDonald said, "but you know and I know this country does not fear invasion by a foreign horde, but does need to fear the graft and corruption that is eating into the vitals of the nation like cancer and, unless stopped, will spell its downfall."

Today MacDonald said the road led off Route 28 in Falmouth, to the right going south just past Camp Edwards. It goes to Falmouth's Silver Beach.

"Are there a lot of houses in the development that would justify the road?" he was asked.

"There are now," he said. "But there weren't when the road was built. The road went in first."

He was asked the name of the councilor.

"Well, use your own common sense," he said. "There is only one Governor's councilman known to have property in the district.

"He's the only councilman I'd know who'd be interested in such a scheme," MacDonald said.

But he refused to name the name.

Missing Salem Children Spend Night in Auto

SALEM, Feb. 13—While police were searching for them last night, June Stanchfield, 15, and her brother George, 14, were huddled in a cold automobile in the backyard of their parents' home here, trying to sleep.

That was revealed today when the two, cold, tired and unhappy, entered the kitchen hand in hand just as breakfast was served.

Two of 12 children—six boys and six girls—of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stanchfield of Boston st., the two had left for school early yesterday and had not been seen since.

Today George explained he and his sister had walked from Salem to Gloucester, where he used to fish summers, and then had walked back and spent the night in the car.

The trip as far as food was concerned was financed by $1.23 his sister had saved. The boy and girl are the two inseparable companions of the Stanchfield household.

Somewhat the better for hot chicken soup and a warm bath, George explained his trip today:

"Well, I don't like arithmetic very well. And June just came along to be with me."

Sleepless Nights Don't Help Your Health

Perhaps It's Lazy Kidneys

When excess acids and poisons accumulate in the blood because your kidneys aren't as active as they should be — ill health from this cause is apt to follow.

Some symptoms of sluggish kidneys often are: getting up nights — backache — nervousness — dizzy spells — difficult passage that sometimes burns — and swollen ankles.

Any druggist will sell you a 35 cent box of GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules — a grand kidney diuretic and stimulant that may do you a lot of good.

So why not get a box today but be sure and ask for and get GOLD MEDAL — pure — the original — the genuine. Don't be an easy mark and accept a cheap substitute — play safe — look for the Gold Medal on the box — the sign of purity — 35 cents.

Valentines Due Tomorrow

Tomorrow's the day to give posies away.

And all you males be sure and not forget it. For no matter how many times you may have erred during recent weeks—yes, even over a year-long period—much of the sting of mistakes can be softened with a bunch of pretty flowers, or at least a Valentine of endearment.

Violets of course are the most appropriate for Valentine Day remembrance, but the Little Lady will offer no criticism if you show up with orchids. Yes, even a penny Valentine will be remembered by her during all this year, if the spirit behind the giving is sincere.

Commons Quiz For Base Leases

LONDON, Feb. 13 (AP)—A House of Commons member requested the government today to allow time for a secret debate on the circumstances of leasing naval bases in the Western Hemisphere and their subsequent administration by the American government.

Clement R. Attlee, lord privy seal, replied the government was very pressed for time, but the suggestion would be brought to the attention of Prime Minister Churchill.

The request came from Commdr. Sir Archibald Southby, Conservative, who said there was a "very widespread desire" the House should know what was being done and what was proposed.

He explained he was "quite in favor of the policy of leasing the bases," which the United States obtained in exchange for 50 destroyers.

WOMAN NEAR DEATH AFTER LODGING HOUSE FIRE RESCUE

A 50-year-old woman, carried unconscious from a burning West End lodging house shortly after a burned man had been rescued from the building, was reported near death at City Hospital today from the effects of smoke inhalation.

Police identified her as Mrs. Catherine Travers of the West End and, because of her condition, instituted a search for her relatives.

Also removed from the third floor of the Staniford st. West End building was Thomas D. Daley, 40, overcome by smoke and severely burned about the back and shoulders.

Both victims were placed on the danger list but so severe was the effect of the smoke on Mrs. Travers, that nurses working for hours with an inhalator revived her to only partial consciousness.

In a condition of shock, she was unable to tell police the names of her nearest kin.

Ten other persons fled from the lodging house when the fire broke out. It was caused by careless smoking, according to Dist. Chief Michael J. Aylward. The flames were confined to Daley's rooms.

Firemen who figured in the rescues of the two victims included Lieut. John McNamara of Engine 6 and Martin Callahan and John C. Bowles of Rescue Co. 3.

Officer Who Fired Last World War Shot Dies at 64

LAGUNA BEACH, Cal., Feb. 13 (AP)—The officer who ordered the firing of the last shot in the World War is dead.

Col. Willis Grandy Peace, U. S. A. retired, was commander of the 11th U. S. Field Artillery in the Argonne forest. A German shell, a minute before 11 o'clock armistice hour, killed several members of his staff. He ordered a shot fired in retaliation. It exploded over the German lines exactly on the hour.

Col. Peace, 64, died at his home here Tuesday.

Crowley Arraigned In Double Murder

In the space of 90 seconds, bedraggled, unshaven John C. Crowley was arraigned on two charges of murder in East Cambridge court today.

Crowley, a 25-year-old baker of Norfolk st., Cambridge, appeared before Judge Arthur P. Stone without counsel. He was charged with shooting to death his wife, Mrs. Adelaide Crowley, 25, mother of three children; and her aunt, Mrs. Martha Querze, 28.

The charge of murdering Mrs. Querze was read first as Crowley stood silent, his head down, in the prisoner's dock.

"Enter a plea of not guilty," ordered Judge Stone after a moment.

Then the second charge was read and the same procedure followed.

"Do you want a hearing in this court or do you want to go straight to the grand jury?" Judge Stone asked.

"I want to go to the grand jury," Crowley said.

Previously police guards quoted his as saying:

"I want to get everything over with quickly. I don't want a lawyer."

Judge Stone ordered him held without bail.

A solemn high mass of requiem for both victims will be held tomorrow morning in St. Anthony's Church, Somerville at 10 a. m.

According to police, Crowley went to the Querze home in an effort to effect a reconciliation with his wife. On her refusal to accompany him home, police said, he shot both women and then fled to Wilmington, where police found him.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN

Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just suffer nothing more from these symptoms. Be sure that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of removing excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters do not work well, poisons may stay in your blood. These poisons may start making backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

MAN SHOT IN BACK BAY BATTLE DIES

Shot twice yesterday by a police headquarters detective in a Back Bay apartment house battle, Bernard T. McCabe, 35, of Hemenway st., Back Bay, died today at City Hospital.

McCabe was one of three men, one armed and later escaping, who allegedly attacked Headquarters Detective William J. McCarthy when the officer called at a fourth floor apartment of the Hemenway st. building during investigation of several Greater Boston drug-store burglaries.

The rough and tumble battle, in the apartment, along a fire escape, back through a window and along a corridor, was climaxed with the flight of the armed man and the shooting of McCabe by the detective, after McCarthy and his remaining two battlers had rolled down a flight of stairs.

Captured with McCabe was a man giving his name as Joseph P. Mortilleti, 30, of Perch st., Roxbury.

Lieut. James V. Crowley of the detective bureau says he will seek an assault warrant in Roxbury court against Mortilleti.

$75,000 FIRE AT HOSPITAL INVESTIGATED

Working inmates of Danvers State Hospital today were questioned in an investigation of a spectacular $75,000 fire which destroyed a dairy barn at that institution, despite efforts of fire-fighters of four cities and towns.

Dr. Clarence Bonner superintendent at the hospital, said a lighted cigarette probably was responsible for the big blaze, seen for miles, but that all inmates who were working there would be questioned.

A favoring wind kept the flames away from the hospital buildings, but burned down the trunk lines and left the institution without telephone service for hours.

Excursion Boat Feud Looms Over Docking

Waterfront circles speculated today over another excursion boat feud following announcement the docking privileges of the Cape Cod Steamship Company at Provincetown were suspended indefinitely during the annual town meeting at Provincetown.

It was voted to grant the docking rights to the Sound Steamship Line, Inc., which plans to run an excursion service between Boston and Provincetown this summer. The license runs from June 15 to Sept. 15 and the fee was set at $1500.

Committee OK On Debt Boost

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 (AP) – The Senate finance committee gave quick approval today to legislation increasing the national debt limit to $65,000,000,000 to meet costs of defense and British aid.

At a brief executive session the committee reported out legislation already approved by the House. This would boost the present debt limit of $45,000,000,000 plus $4,000,000,000 earmarked for national defense, subject all future federal security issues to federal income tax and give the Treasury broad powers to issue securities in small denominations.

New Record Set By N. E. Mutual

With assets reaching $502,000,000 a new high—President George W. Smith of the New England Mutual Insurance Co. said today that assets and insurance protection of policyholders in his company had reached the highest point in its century of experience.

Smith said that the over-half-billion total represented an increase of $33,000,000 in 1940.

In his report to the 97th annual meeting, Smith added that insurance in force in the company has increased 33 per cent since 1929 to $1,607,000,000 – and that assets have more than doubled.

In general comment, Smith said that in the current national crisis the average American has endorsed a policy of added protection and that the company has practiced unusual precautions to strengthen its position.

BETTY COMPTON SEEKS DIVORCE

MIAMI, Feb. 13—The romance that was going to live forever—that of Betty Compton Walker and Jimmy Walker—has ended and will be written off here in divorce action next week.

So the one-time actress confided to friends today, without bitterness, and proclaiming that the Jimmy she loved—once New York's mayor—is "still the greatest guy in the world."

Her petition will be based on charges of mental cruelty and there will be no contest, the pretty brunette said. She came south Nov. 16 and established residence at Stuart, Fla. The required 90-day term of residence will be reached Sunday and action will begin soon after.

To friends Betty said:

"Jimmy knows about my plans, and will not contest the action. We are both grown up. We talked it over. We have gone through a lot together, but we decided that we will be happier as friends.

"The one thing that breaks my heart is that we both so love our two adopted children. I don't know just yet exactly what arrangements about them will be made.

"When I told Jimmy my mind was made up, he said, 'Anything you want, baby. I've taken it on the chin before, and know how. I hope you'll be happy.'"

Betty said that neither she nor Jimmy had any other heart interest.

Here's a Sure Way to Keep Out of the New Police Parking Drive in Boston

You live North of Boston. You drive in—to shop, to the movies, to work or something else. If you park your car in Boston—a little longer than you meant to, or maybe where no parking is permitted, you will very likely get tagged by the police.

Parking drive or no parking drive, Boston is a great place to work, to shop, to have fun. It's convenient, too, when you come in town by train.

Our Tickets are Cheaper than Tags

Fines cost money. Getting your tag back to the Police Station takes time, and your time is worth money. But a ticket on the B and M costs you less than two cents a mile—only ten cents or up, depending on where you live. When you get to Boston, a ten-cent carfare or a taxi, in case you are bound beyond walking distance, is far cheaper than a police tag.

If you drive to Boston, and pay to park your car, it costs you from fifteen to fifty cents—usually an average of at least twenty-five cents.

Our Tickets are Cheaper than Parking Fees

BUT—if you park your car free at our suburban stations, you are sure of no police tag; no time wasted going to Police Station; no trips to court to be fined.

Here are a few examples of our everyday low fares to Boston:

U. S. PILOTS, BRITISH ACES SWAP GAY QUIPS IN SHADOW OF DEATH

In the following exclusive dispatch J. Reagan McCrary, New York newspaper man who flew to England in an American-made bomber which was delivered to the RAF, tells some intimate details about the daily routine of life in the American Eagles squadron of the British flying forces.

By J. REAGAN McCRARY
International News Service Special Correspondent

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, Feb. 13 (INS)—I never had such a long sleep as I got last night in a squadron leader's borrowed bunk at the American Eagles' station. It was incongruous sleeping so soundly in one corner of the life and death prize ring.

I shall never forget what Roy told me when he said good night. Roy is the gay, blonde English lad who is nursing a sun-lamp tan and studying American slang. He is too gay. He is daring death to nail him.

"We call this Peaceful Valley," he said.

After the lights were out, I thought about how I had stuck out my neck in a bull session with the boys after dinner. They were enthusiastic and interested about my bomber trip over. One of them said: How would you like to take a run over Jerry's side and drop a few of bombs on Germany?

"Jeepers! Could you fix it? Sure I would like to go."

That is what I told them. I was trying to live up to that bomber hop across the Atlantic.

OUT ON A LIMB

And they pulled me further and further out on the limb. They told me what it was like and assured me they could work it. They asked me that night I had free this week. I said, with a wink at the boys, they told me they were just pulling my leg—just kidding me a bit.

"Thank God," I said to myself.

Breakfast was hasty and early. It was interrupted once by the loudspeaker outlining today's schedule of fun and games," which wound up with an announcement of a local dance. This was greeted with the "Bird."

I was to catch an early train for London. I had plans to spend the week-end with two members of the war cabinet, and one of them knew the answer to the question I came over here to ask:

"Has Hitler got enough oil reserves to invade England without first grabbing the Near East fields?"

Due to a slight accident there were no trains running. So I went back to the fighter station and out on the field to watch the morning workout of the fighters.

Shotty of Brooklyn was backed up against some sandbags, squatting and wearing a catcher's mitten. Three other eagles were flinging a baseball toward him.

Just homesick, I thought. When in Rome we never do as the Romans do.

Then we pushed on into the control shack. You saw how that works in the movie "The Lion Has Wings."

SPRAWL ABOUT STOVE

In this shack a dozen young eagles were sprawled around a potbellied stove, their feet up on it and pipes in mouth, some were sleeping and some were dressed in their "Mae Wests" (parachutes). They snapped to instant rigid attention when we walked in—not for me. I was with the squadron leader.

It takes a flight only a few minutes to "scramble" from that shack into their Hurricanes and into the air. Split seconds later, then, they are ready for combat.

Hanging from the ceiling of this shack there were some 30 models of Jerry's aircraft—all to scale about a foot long. In one corner of the shack on a tripod like a surveyor's glass a fighter's sight was mounted. It was exactly like the sight of a fighter pilot uses to train his guns on Jerry. The edge was padded with sponge rubber—that's for eager pilots who press their nose into the sight like a kid on a candy store window.

I stood there looking at the Jerry models and tried it on fighters like the Messerschmitt 109 and 110.

The new Lincoln like Yankee Ambassador Winant will want to spend a lot of time in these shacks—he flew and fought in the last show. He will speak the language of these shacks this time.

THINGS CHANGED

Things have changed in World War No. 2. One of the veterans told me that in the last war 70 per cent of the crash landings killed the pilots. But the sturdy Hurricanes and Spitfires in this show can pancake into trees and pilots live to fly again. The aircraft in this show are like London—they can take it.

BRITISH PILOTS IN CONTROL SHACK
Warm Up While Awaiting Flying Orders

One flight lieutenant—they call him Willkie—worships the Hurricanes and swears they are all flight tested by being dived through a brick wall. This is a slight exaggeration. The German fighters have the ceiling on Hurricanes and Spitfires but the British fighters have the ceiling on the Jerry bombers, and that's all they ask.

The new Hurricane 2's, which are called Tornadoes, will have tremendous firepower. They will carry 12 machine guns or four aircannon, or a combination of that much fire power. None of the Jerries can touch that total.

Most of the fighter pilots are quiet, pipe-smoking types. The bomber pilots are the gay ones in this war. None of the fighters seem to envy the bomber crews.

IN JERRY CAMP

"I saw a picture of Terrence R. the other day," one of them told me. "He took a bomber over and now he is in a Jerry prison camp. He's got a bushy beard and seemed very happy in the picture. His smile will make his wife stop worrying. So many of them wind up behind Jerry's barbed wire.

"I knew Terrence. He lives for action. Without action he will die or go mad if this war lasts another year. No, I'll stick to fighters, thank you. No bombers and barbed wire for me."

Fighters have a certain margin of safety. It has been figured out that for every 12 British planes knocked down, seven pilots live. They bail out or pancake into the Channel and are picked up.

The fighters are holding their own and better today. Nobody has knocked down more than 30 Jerries since the blitz on Britain began.

One of the leaders of the RAF is the son of a Scotch chemist who plotted out a course of victories a year ago, and he's right on schedule. He wants to lead the field for only one reason. "After the show is over," he said, "I want to get a job with Pan-American Airways."

One Pole has more than 50 Jerries to his credit—but he rolled up that total on three fronts.

LIFELONG FRIENDS

The boys of the Eagle Squadron got along like lifelong friends with the "Limeys." There was a little hard feeling against American airmen over here early in the war, because a lot of the Yanks brought over here were paid about $120 a week to ferry planes around inside Britain. A safe job too well paid.

The British felt, and rightly, that some of their pilots who had been wounded, who had had an elbow shot away or a leg shredded, but were now healed and had strength enough for the ferry jobs, should get those plums instead of having them handed to able-bodied Americans.

And the Americans agreed. "We got the chill and we don't blame them," the Yanks said.

But all that feeling is dead and forgotten now.

"How am I doing, chum?"

While the boys were waiting for the scramble call in the shack they explained to me the lingo of their game—the code words used by the control officer to tell them what to do in the air.

There's nothing secret about the words. It's just a standard name for technical stuff, a word you can understand even when the winds are howling and your insides are being wrenched loose in a tight twist. For instance, altitude may be "Gabriel." A Jerry bomber would be called something like "Rustler" or "Dutch Schultz."

CUSSES INTO EARS

Some day I want to listen in on one of those life and death flashes between the control and fighter pilots.

They told me how one boy who speaks German cuts in on the Jerries sometimes and cusses into their wired ears.

They told me how the control officers get a vivid picture of the combat when a pilot leaves the transmitter on, about one pilot who screamed:

"I got him! He's burning."

As I left the squadron I heard the warmest goodby I have ever heard.

I looked back again at these American boys and thought of the bull session after mess the night before. To their folks back home and to the rest I want to report:

They will not "go operational" until ready. That may be soon, but not now.

They are magnificent boys, living gloriously. They are respected as heroes by the royal air force and they are liked by their seniors.

Believe me, they know their "war aims" as well as Mr. Churchill and Mr. Roosevelt. They put it very simply: "If we don't get the Jeris, they will get us."

Nazi, Who Fled Prison Ship in Canada, Safe in Tokyo, Local Girl Told

The "round-the-world" odyssey of 23-year-old Walther Kurt Reich, first German prisoner of war to escape from a British prison ship in North American waters, came to light today in postcards mailed by him to a Jamaica Plain girl.

The latest message of the dapper Nazi submarine officer was from Tokyo, Japan, where he wrote:

"When one says he is a German, they open their doors for you."

From the home he left in Berlin to join the German undersea service, Reich had been transported across the Atlantic, escaped his prison ship somewhere in the St Lawrence river, crossed the United States and the Pacific ocean.

Momentarily the girl to whom he wrote says she expects word that he has passed safely through Siberia and Russia, and is now back home in Berlin.

FLED FROM CANADA

Reich was captured last March when the British sunk the U-boat on which he was serving as machinist's mate. After four months in a prison at Manchester, Eng., he was moved aboard an unnamed prison ship with other Nazi captives, his eventual destination a Canadian prison camp.

It was in July, when the bewhiskered, bedraggled young sailor was found by immigration inspectors in the north Maine woods, that his escape first became known.

He had squirmed through a porthole of the British prison ship, dived into the St. Lawrence and swam to the Maine shore. For four days and five nights he walked through the wilderness, existing on berries and water.

Under international law, a prisoner escaping to a neutral country goes free and young Reich eventually moved to Boston, where he was aided by the German consulate here.

ENTERTAINED HERE

During his stay in Boston he was guest of many German-American societies and clubs.

"He met lots of girls here, too," said the young woman who received his postcards, "but he didn't care for American girls. He said they used too many cosmetics and dressed daringly. He was very conservative."

Reich made his way westward and homeward on funds provided by the German consulates.

From the Grand Canyon in Falstaff, Ariz., Reich wrote:

"On the trip toward Los Angeles, I have put the best part of my journey behind me. There was very beautiful scenery to behold. Here is the Grand Canyon. (The picture on the card.) I broke up the trip for a visit here. Many greetings for you and your parents. Love,

"KURT."

The next message came from Tokyo, and on this card, a view of Mt. Fuji, Reich wrote.

"Arrived in Japan safely. Here it is quite another world—exactly the opposite of America.

"When one says one is a German, they open their doors for you.

"In 10 days I proceed to Germany, so I will spend Christmas and New Year's in Japan.

"Heartiest greetings to you and our parents. KURT."

This War's a Bit Tougher

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER
Distributed by International News Service

Back in 1914 I was so scared of submarines I wouldn't walk up a damp street.

Now, this war is tougher than the other one. You can't tell whether a guy is lurking in a cloud or ambushed in seaweed.

I see that the Germans bombed Iceland, which is only 1000 miles away as the crew commutes.

That scares us fellows in New York, where the buildings are combination giraffe and bottle necks. If those bombers knock over the Empire State Building there will be hitch-hikers in New Jersey thumbing rides on New York elevators.

The architects say our skyscrapers are the safest places in the world. But I'll still take Horace Greeley's advice 70 years late and lap the field.

All the transcontinental planes fly over my house and I lay there awake thinking, "Well that could be an enemy bomber."

That makes you thankful it isn't. It also makes you glad they're not having oystery on the half-shell for supper and shaking the table-cloth out of the window.

Exposing Red Spies, Krivitsky's Mission

he was their chief—and since his disillusionment with Communism he had been gradually breaking down their power in the democracies.

Friends of Krivitsky, tight-lipped with fear for their own lives, gave full credence to the official revelations of his activity and again demanded that the federal government reopen suspicion of murder and hunt for the OGPU agent, Hans Brusere (or Bruserer), the man Krivitsky himself had declared was plotting his assassination.

The living symbols of Krivitsky's success in exposing the Soviet spy system are the hundreds now held in Canadian and British concentration camps, the official sources said.

ACTIVE IN CANADA

From December, 1939, three months after Britain declared war against Germany and thus became a target for the agents of the Soviet-Nazi partnership, until November, 1940, Krivitsky was in Canada, reportedly in close touch with R. H. Gagnon, superintendent of the Canadian Royal Mounted Police.

During that period secret raids throughout Canada bagged scores of spies, provocateurs and saboteurs. All are now in concentration camps, officially guilty of "acts against the realm" or "acts disruptive of the progress of the war." The British Empire, of course, is not at war with Russia and, therefore, makes no arrests of Soviet spies as such per se.

Krovitsky's work, the Washington sources said, was so successful in Canada that the British government induced him to go to England, where spy activities are far more dangerous.

TURNED SPY HUNTER

It was disclosed that some time around the New Year the spy turned spy-hunter, boarded a vessel "somewhere on the Canadian coast" and landed at Liverpool after a stormy voyage across the North Atlantic in convoy. Officers of the British Intelligence, chosen for their knowledge of the Russian language and their specialization in Soviet espionage, were detailed to Krivitsky.

After a visit of a few weeks, again coinciding with arrests of "activists"—the field workers of the espionage system—Krivitsky insisted on returning to New York, where his wife and young son were unprotected. The British asked, and he agreed, that he would go back to England next spring for further work.

DIES WITNESS

Krivitsky had another reason for returning. In the fall of 1939, shortly before he went to Canada, he testified before the Dies Committee. On the record were his charges that OGPU agents have penetrated the U. S. Army and Navy; that the American Communist party, headed by Earl Browder, was financed largely by Moscow, but that it carried out only the smallest type of Soviet work here, the more important being done by a web of agents headed by a six-man staff.

But Krivitsky told even more—off the record, it was learned. He made many broader statements off the witness stand, that Dies Committee investigators have been checking.

To aid in this work of exposing spies in the democracy rushing aid to Britain, Krivitsky came back—came back to death.

Meanwhile, another who knew the inner workings of the Soviets, added her insistence that Krivitsky's death was "murder by the OGPU."

NOT A SUICIDE

She was the widow of Leon Trotsky, himself an OGPU murder victim. Her opinion coincided with Alexander Kerensky, who like Trotsky, once held the post now occupied by Josef Stalin.

Through a secretary, Mrs. Trotsky said at her fortress-like home just outside Mexico City:

"Krivitsky's death was not suicide. That suicide theory is just one of the OGPU's many schemes to attempt to cover up its murders.

"Stalinists, for example, tried to make the first unsuccessful attack on Trotsky appear as a self-assault."

Krivitsky and Trotsky, she said did not know each other, and Krivitsky was not a member of the Trotskyist organization.

But Washington police arbitrarily have ruled suicide.

As far as the District of Columbia authorities are concerned, this writes "finis" to the sensational case, which aroused charges by the dead man's attorney, Louis Waldman of New York, and his relatives, that Krivitsky was murdered by agents of the OGPU, Soviet secret police.

Coroner A. M. Magruder had withheld a formal suicide certificate on the insistence of Waldman, who said that Krivitsky had been "trailed" for weeks, and had lived in constant fear of his life at the hands of "Stalin killers."

DIES SEES MURDER

Support of the murder theory was expressed, inferentially, by Chairman Dies (D.) of Texas, yesterday, before whose committee on un-American activities the Russian had been a "star witness" in 1939. A number of Krivitsky's friends and former associates hold the same view.

Krivitsky's body, bullet wound in the right temple, was found in the locked, fifth-floor room of a Washington hotel near the Union Station, Monday morning.

Lt. George Darnall, homicide squad chief, announced the suicide verdict after questioning Eitel Dobert, Nazi refugee, and his wife, Margaret, of Charlottesville, Va., close friends of Krivitsky.

DEMANDS PROBE

Waldman, however, was expected to continue his appeal for investigation of an asserted clue which, he contended, pointed to the possibility Krivitsky was murdered by "a well-known" Soviet assassin reported to be in this country.

Out of the maze of clues and controversial reports, police said it appeared evident that Krivitsky had pulled the trigger of the gun that took his life, but they conceded he might well have been driven to do so by the OGPU holding a figurative gun in his back.

Krivitsky, former director of Russian Military Intelligence in Western Europe, was found shot to death in a small hotel room in Washington on Monday. He had lived for years in dread of revenge at the hands of Stalin with whom he broke in 1937.

VOTE OF COMMITTEE

Fourteen Democrats and one Republican voted to send the bill to the Senate floor while five Republicans, two Democrats, and a Progressive opposed. The vote:

Republican for—White, Maine.

Democrats against — Gillette, Iowa, and Clark, Missouri.

Republicans against — Johnson, California; Capper, Kansas; Vandenberg, Michigan; Nye, North Dakota, and Shipstead, Minnesota.

Progressive against—LaFollette, Wisconsin.

AEF BAN KILLED

Ellender told reporters when he came out of the closed committee session the group had voted 13 to 9 against a proposed amendment which would have stated that nothing in the act would give the President any authority, beyond what he already had, to send men of the Army and Navy to points outside this hemisphere or American possessions.

Previously, committe members said two administration amendments to the bill had been adopted as a final vote was approached on the revised legislation.

One would require the President to obtain authorization from Congress before he could contract for future delivery of war materials to be turned over to other nations.

The other would provide money received in payment of transferred materials should go into the Treasury's general fund after July 1, 1946.

BRITISH MAY GET 45 OLD NAVAL SHIPS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 (AP)—The destroyer dispute between Sec. Knox and Wendell L. Willkie led some informed persons today to mention the pool of 45 recently converted auxiliary naval vessels as a potential source of further aid to Britain.

Prior to their conversion, these auxiliaries were destroyers of the same World War type as the 50 already traded Britain, but now, it was pointed out, the ships technically are no longer destroyers and hence are not counted as part of the Fleet's destroyer strength of 160.

Knox's statement that no more destroyers could be spared "without depleting our fleet" did not, strictly speaking, apply to auxiliaries, these sources noted.

INDIRECT REPLY

The Navy Secretary made the statement yesterday, in an indirect reply to Willkie's plea of Tuesday that from five to ten American destroyers be sent to Britain each month to meet her "desperate need."

Willkie in New York, retorted at once that "high authorities" in the Administration had told him that "we are in a position, without any injury to our Navy or national defense, to give Great Britain immediate effective assistance by furnishing her additional destroyers."

Willkie's insistence on this point caused some to recall that, among others, he talked with President Roosevelt after testifying before the Senate committee on the British Aid bill.

The White House maintained silence on the destroyer controversy, but one development yesterday was interpreted as a possible step toward extending further help in merchant tonnage—which Willkie listed with destroyers and bombers as one of Britain's three great immediate needs.

NAVY VIEWPOINT

In the destroyer controversy, some non-service officials suggested that Sec. Knox's dispute with Willkie might merely be an expression of the strictly Navy viewpoint which would give way before a practical solution based on broader defense considerations . . . They said further that the 45 converted auxiliaries might provide the answer to both Willkie's request and Knox's objection to parting with any more destroyers.

The auxiliaries required only from 30 to 60 days to convert, they said, and could be changed back in the same length of time.

Atty.-Gen. Jackson — Harry R. Bridges

U. S. In Second Move to Oust Bridges

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 (AP)—Atty.-Gen. Jackson ordered that new deportation proceedings be started against Harry R. Bridges, West Coast CIO leader, who has been a center of controversy for years. Charges have been made that Bridges, a native of Australia, was a Communist. Bridges has denied the allegations.

A 2500-word report by J. Edgar Hoover, director of the FBI, will form the basis of the government's case, which Jackson says contains new and additional evidence.

Bridges will be served with a deportation warrant and will appear before a trial examiner in San Francisco beginning March 31.

Similar proceedings instituted by Secretary of Labor Perkins three years ago brought a report from Dean James M. Landis of the Harvard Law School, the trial examiner, that Bridges was "energetically radical, but not a member of the Communist party.

Since that time the Bureau of Immigration and Naturalization has been transferred from the Labor to the Justice Department.

Before the first proceedings against Bridges were closed, the Supreme Court had laid down a rule that aliens in such cases must be shown to have been members of or affiliated with organizations advocating overthrow of the government by force and violence, at the time the proceedings were started not some time previously.

"Accordingly," Jackson said, "the conclusion reached by Dean Landis was that the evidence failed to establish that Harry Bridges was either a member of or affiliated with the Communist party of the United States at the time the deportation proceedings were instituted."

But since then, he added, Congress had enacted the Alien Registration Act of 1940 to alter the rule of the Supreme Court decision and to make deportable an alien who at any time since last has been a member of, and with a subversive organization as described in the act.

Why Do Women Tire Quicker Than Men?

Medical science says women's blood generally has a slight deficiency in red blood cells . . . the cells which transport life-giving oxygen from the lungs to all body tissues. Together with the usual periodic blood loss each month, red blood cells become scant, with the result that women's body tissues are not fed the life-giving oxygen as fast as men's. Consequently they tire more easily.

Women who are constantly tired . . . always complaining . . . never really feel 100% perfect, probably have thin, pale, watery blood that is unable to supply rugged energy and vibrant health . . . and to carry life-giving oxygen to hungry tissues.

But here is good news. If you want to add new fighting blood in 9 days, try the amazing new discovery, Bonequet (pronounced Bon-Kay) Tablets. These pleasant-tasting, easy-to-take tablets contain, in concentrated quantities, the raw materials generally deficient in the modern diet . . . the most important being the active principle of raw liver, vegetable iron, vitamin B complex, fortified with pure crystalline vitamins B and G, assimilable calcium and phosphorus.

Get a bottle of Bonequet Tablets today. If, after 9 days, you don't feel more alive . . . have more energy . . . and actually look better, your money will be instantly refunded. Two sizes—$1.97 and $3.89. Mail orders sent postpaid. Bonequet Tablets are sold only at right military participation is doomed to failure.

Food and other conditions in Spain are so desperate that a situation which may best be termed "delicate" has arisen.

It would be extremely dangerous, in the view of well-informed observers, if Franco should add an unpopular war to the already crushing burdens of his country.

Failing in its long-shot purpose of bringing Spain into the conflict, the alternate and probable real aim of the Axis is to prepare the German and Italian public for an impending change of view regarding importance of the Mediterranean theater.

Up to now Italy, by reverses and original initiative, has been led to believe that in the Mediterranean lies her destiny. But from now on, it is believed, the Italian people will be told—like those of Nazi Germany—that the war can and will be won only by a crushing blow against Britain herself.

INVASION TRY LOOMS

Despite the enormous difficulties of an attempted invasion, most observers even in the sensitive nerve center of Vichy believe that Germany will try it.

The Germans now have about 30 shock divisions, totalling some 450,000 men, bivouacked along the English Channel. It is the consensus here that these men will be thrown across the narrow strip of water with the least possible loss of time in the "do or die" effort for which Hitler already has begun to prepare his people.

The conference at Montpellier today was shrouded in some mystery. There were persistent reports that Marshal Pietro Badoglio, ousted as Italian chief of staff after the Albanian fiasco, and Crown Prince Umberto participated.

Present at the conference in addition to Petain and Franco were Vice Premier Jean Darlan and Interior Minister Marcel Peyrouton of France, as well as Foreign Minister Remon Serrano Suner of Spain and a number of Italian army officers.

It also was rumored that some very important resident of Rome with "mondial" influence may visit Petain in the near future.

Downs, who filed the above dispatch through the Vichy censorship, used the French adjective "mondial," which, roughly speaking, means "world-wide" or universal. In all probabilities he referred to King Victor Emmanuel of Italy, but the remote possibility of such a move by Pope Pius could not be excluded.—Editor's Note.

Madrid Thinks Franco Will Remain Neutral

MADRID, Feb. 13 (INS)—Firm conviction that Spain will decline ot abandon her neutrality was expressed by well-informed circles in Madrid today.

The general impression was that Franco, far from seeking to involve this nation in conflict, is interested primarily in finding some remedy for Spain's acute problems of food, transport, unemployment and reconstruction.

Rome Reports Spain Continues With Axis

ROME, Feb. 13 (INS) Premier Mussolini and Spanish Generalissimo Francisco Franco discussed a wide range of topics, including war developments in Africa and the Mediterranean, during their meeting in Italy yesterday, Rome officials said today.

"Il Duce and El Caudillo (Franco) took up problems connected with the present conflict, reorganization of Europe and war developments in the Mediterranean," these quarters stated.

"Spains solidarity with the Axis continues. It was significant that Franco made his first visit to Italy to confer with Premier Mussolini, whom he had never previously met."

Only a few hours after Franco left Italy to confer with French Premier Marshal Henri Philippe Petain, the newspaper Tevere predicted expulsion of Britain from Greece and from Gibraltar, England's Mediterranean fortress.

"England will be expelled from Greece and from Gibraltar, after which conclusion of a memorable war undertaking will occur," the paper stated.

This was published as the government issued a communique on Mussolini's talks with Franco.

'The talks which occurred yesterday morning and afternoon at Bordighera among Il Duce, El Caudillo, and Foreign Minister Ramon Serrano Suner demonstrated the identity of views of the Italian and Spanish governments on problems of a European character as well as those interesting the two countries at the present historical moment."

BUENOS AIRES, Feb. 13 (AP)—Thousands of brilliantly colored butterflies fluttered down on Buenos Aires today in an unusual invasion which scientists were unable to explain. The butterflies settled in swarms in the streets and on the clothing of pedestrians.

Nazis Claim 13 Ships Sunk in British Convoy

ported sunk in the canal, it is said the Luftwaffe since mid-January had scored hits on the canal embankments, railroad and port facilities.

PLANES AID U-BOATS

The announcement of the pounce on the convoy in the Atlantic caused a stir in Berlin. It was described as a continuation of a raid started Sunday, when bombing planes and submarines were asserted to have sunk 24,500 tons of ships off Portugal.

German authorities obviously regarded co-operation of planes, submarines and surface vessels in the war on commerce as an effective means of beating the convoy system.

The Germans said today the best example of co-operation between planes and submarines was demonstrated Oct. 27 when the British liner Empress of Britain was sunk. A plane damaged the ship but was unable to sink her, then summoned a U-boat which finished the Empress as she was being towed to harbor.

Military spokesmen declared, however, that the world was witnessing the first large scale development of tactics by which surface craft, submarines and long-distance scouting planes co-operated.

There was no mention of where the action took place, but a military spokesman said it was a continuation of the attack which was disclosed first last Sunday in a German announcement telling of the wrecking of six vessels of another convoy by planes off the Portuguese coast.

HUNT DOWN SHIPS

Military authorities indicated the convoy had been attacked fiercely and scattered, after which the vessels were picked off one by one.

The German radio reported the sinkings in a "special report," the first since the French campaign.

Informed sources at the same time said the German air force yesterday made several "successful" attacks on British maritime objectives.

Two bomb hits were scored on a 4000-ton merchantman off the northeast coast of Scotland, which was forced to stop, they said.

Another freighter of 3000 tons was reported bombed off the Shetland Islands.

A German warplane bombed and machine-gunned a British minesweeper and a patrol boat was reported attacked east of Clacton-on-Sea by another Nazi plane, the sources said. The patrol boat was riddled and the crew took to the boats, they added.

Japs Hear Russians Massing Fleet, Army

TOKYO, Feb. 13 (INS)—The Soviet Black sea fleet, consisting of two battleships, four cruisers, 30 destroyers and 24 submarines, is being massed in the Bosporus, the newspaper Hochi Shimbun reported from Tsuruga today.

Two million Red army troops are massed on the Turkish and Rumanian borders, the paper said.

ITALIANS HURLED BACK IN ERITREA

CAIRO, Egypt, Feb. 13 (AP)—British Imperial troops driving into Eritea from the north were reported today to have repulsed strong Italian counter attacks after occupying positions controlling an important highway junction at Elgena, 30 miles from the Sudanese frontier.

Advices from the front indicated the British were improving their positions before attempting to push on in the direction of Cheren, 110 miles south, where another force advancing from the west has encountered stiff Italian resistance.

A highway also leads from Elgena to Massaua, important Red Sea port 70 miles east of Cheren and the ultimate objective of the British offensive in Eritrea.

Reports from Libya said that British forces here were striving to restore order in the countryside, where natives have killed a number of Italian colonists and pillaged their homes.

Approximately 7000 of captured Bengasi's Italian population of 20,000 civilians were said to be still in residence there in addition to about 40,000 natives.

Little military activity was reported on the Libyan front, though Axis warplanes were said to have attacked Bengasi virtually every night since its occupation by the British last Friday. Damage done by the raiders was described as slight.

(The German news agency, DNB, said last night that German combat planes had successfully attacked British airports and troop encampments in Libya Wednesday, scoring hits on airport barracks and grounded bombers.)

Authoritative British estimated more than 1000 Axis planes have been shot down or destroyed in Africa since the war began.

Greeks Reject Nazi Peace Bid

LONDON, Feb. 13 (INS) — Reports that at least 100,000—and possibly 600,000 German troops have been massed in Rumania, ready to cross the Danube into Bulgaria and thus bring pressure on Greece, coincided today with advices that the Athens government is balking at a Nazi peace bid.

These advices said Germany has offered Greece a four-point peace plan as follows:

1—Greece will retain her present gains in Albania; 2—Greece will demobilize her army and declare herself a neutral; 3—Greece will ask for withdrawal of British forces and abandonment by the British of naval and air bases on the island of Crete; 4—Germany will guarantee Greece against further Italian attacks.

Nazi Air Invasion Story Myth, Says Bulgarian Envoy

LONDON, Feb. 13 (AP)—A Bulgarian legation spokesman today described as "fantastic" reports that 1000 Nazi planes had landed in the Balkan country.

"We haven't the airports to take 1000 aircraft," he said emphatically, "and such airfields as we have would not be usable at this time of year."

Greeks Sweep Nearer Valona

ATHENS, Feb. 13 (AP)—Greek troops were reported today to have advanced about three miles in the coastal sector after an intense artillery action to prepare the way toward Valona, Italian-held Albanian port.

The Greeks also were reported to have attacked over a wide front in the central sector and to be threatening an "important enemy base."

The fighting near Valona was said to have occurred in the heights within a short distance of the Adriatic shore, with the Italians stubbornly defending strongly fortified positions.

NEWBURYPORT, Feb 13 — What's Weymouth's loss may be Newburyport's gain.

So it was summed up today by Mayor James F. Carens, who, on learning that Weymouth voters had turned down plans for a navy dirigible base, put in a bid for his city.

Mayor Carens said he had wired Capt. Charles E. Rosendahl in Washington that Newburyport was eager to offer a site for the North Atlantic base.

Battle in Paraguay Leaves Several Dead

FORMOSA, Argentina, Feb. 13 (AP)—Reliable reports reaching here today said several Paraguayan military men were killed and wounded Monday in a battle at headquarters of an infantry regiment at a northern post in Concepcion.

Supporters of the government at Asuncion were reported to have attempted to oust Col. Alfredo Ramos, commander of the regiment and a supporter of the late President, Jose Felix Estigarribia.

Britain Waits Nazi Push on Suez, 'Rock'

LONDON, Feb. 13 (AP)—British circles said today twin German thrusts at Gibraltar and the Suez canal were expected "within the next 30 days" in an effort to seal both ends of the Mediterranean and isolate British forces in the Libyan campaign.

A drive in the west, they asserted, would be made with the full acquiescence of the Spanish government, which would allow the Germans free movement through Spain.

The drive in the east "probably will force the Turks to fight," but this new foe would be balanced by cutting off Greece, they added.

It was said that Premier Mussolini of Italy was believed to have appealed to Generalissimo Francisco Franco in their Italian meeting yesterday for co-operation in a German attack on Gibraltar.

British squadrons patrolling the Western Mediterranean operate from "The Rock" which guards the western end of the sea.

According to the picture drawn in British circles, the prime objective of the first phase of a German drive in the East would be Salonika, Greece.

Capture of Salonika would provide a base for air and sea raids on Alexandria, Britain's naval bastion in the Eastern Mediterranean, they said.

It was indicated Britain was mobilizing all her diplomatic resources in the Balkans in an effort to offset the danger of a German thrust through Bulgaria.

BRITAIN ASKED NO WAR

British diplomatic sources offered an outline of Britain's attitude toward Bulgaria, asserting Prime Minister Churchill in his Sunday broadcast "did not ask Bulgaria to abandon her neutrality in favor of Britain or anyone else, but to preserve and defend it," and emphasized Britain at no time had asked Bulgaria "to attack Germany."

Diplomats said the status of Rumania remained obscure. It was not clear whether that country was regarded officially as "enemy-occupied territory" like Denmark or Norway. The general belief was that, until Rumania is placed in that category, the RAF would not bomb the German-held Rumanian oil fields.

Authorized sources said that while Britain could increase her fighting forces in the Near East as the situation demanded there was a limit as to how many men she could send in view of the threats to England.

SOME OF 100,000—Toward Egypt and prison camps head these hundreds of Italian prisoners . . . following their capture during the British sweep through Libya. British claim they have captured 100,000 Italians.

U. S. WARNS ALL AMERICANS TO QUIT FAR EAST IN CRISIS

In Washington Tuesday whether he believed there was danger of the United States becoming involved in war in the Far East, replied in the negative.—Editor's Note.

American official circles said there had been no material developments for the worse in the Far Eastern situation recently to prompt the State Department's renewal of its evacuation advice, but added that on the other hand there were no signs of improvement.

Americans in Japan Get Warning to Leave

TOKYO, Feb. 13 (AP)—Americans received their third notice today urging withdrawal from Japan "in your own and the best national interests."

The United States consulate distributed mimeographed copies on instructions from Washington reiterating the advice women, children and men "whose continued presence is not highly essential" to take advantage of existing transportation facilities to return to the United States.

Hull Classes Warning As Precaution in Crisis

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 (AP)—Secretary Hull said today consular officers were telling Americans to leave Far Eastern countries as a precaution in view of disturbed conditions.

Britain Sees Japan Entering War Soon

LONDON, Feb. 13 (INS)—Possibility Japan may intervene in the war on the side of Germany and Italy was frankly admitted by authoritative British quarters today.

Informed circles said Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka's speeches have been getting "tougher" during the past three or four days and that Japanese extremists were gradually taking charge of government policies.

Australia Gets News Of Grave Pacific Peril

SYDNEY, Australia, Feb. 13 AP)—A. W. Fadden, deputy prime minister of Australia, declared today the war had reached a new stage of the utmost gravity to Australia and indicated "grave advices" concerning the situation in the Pacific had been received.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 13 (INS)—The Dutch East Indies colonial government has ordered its merchant vessels into neutral harbors in the far Pacific, according to reports reaching here today. Sailing schedules were reported cancelled.

Slav Priests Jailed In Bombing Probe

ZAGREB, Yugoslavia, Feb. 13 (AP) — Jails here were crowded with persons arrested for questioning in the bomb explosion Feb. 4 in the British consulate building which killed a woman and an engineer.

Several Roman Catholic priests were seized by police, Archbishop Armjkije Stepinac was reported to have gone to Vatican City to report to Pope Pius XII.

NAZIS CALL SLAV LEADERS TO PARLEY

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Feb. 13 (AP)—The premier and foreign minister of Yugoslavia, whose territory might offer a corridor for Nazi legions should they strike at Greece, left by special train for Germany today to discuss adherence to the tri-power pact of Germany, Italy and Japan.

Premier Dragisa Cvetkovic and Aleksander Cincar-Markovic made the journey at the invitation of the German government, it was learned, and were accompanied by the German minister to Belgrade, Viktor von Heeren.

They were expected to meet German leaders either at Berlin or at Salzburg, in Austria.

Informed Berlin sources confirmed plans for the meeting.

The news startled diplomatic quarters which a few hours before had been discussing efforts of Tuprkish diplomats to form a pro-British lineup of Yugoslavia, Bulgaria, Greece and Turkey to preserve peace in the Balkans.

TENSION GROWS

Reports from other Balkan capitals added to a general picture of tension and fear of swift-moving developments.

Rumania began moving civilians from Ploesti, Giurgiu, Constanta, and other centers which British bombers might attack in order to interfere with the German oil supply. Since Britain severed diplomatic relations with Rumania Monday, Rumanians have been warned to observe the blackout.

A Bulgarian radio broadcast was heard in Budapest asserting Bulgaria's claims against Greece to an outlet to the Aegean.

Greek claims of fresh advances in Albania strengthened belief among observers that Germany might not wait much longer before going to the aid of her Italian ally.

Political quarters said the Yugoslav leaders were asked to go to Germany to discuss "the present political situation in the Balkans" and joining the Axis.

The mission to Germany followed the signing of a pact of "lasting peace and eternal friendship" between Yugoslavia and Hungary Dec. 12.

At the time there was speculation whether the pact was an effort of the Axis to strengthen ties with Yugoslavia. Hungary already was a member of the three-power defense alliance of Germany, Italy and Japan.

Recent movements of German troops into Rumania, estimated now to total 600,000, have aroused nervousness in Yugoslavia.

FIT AS FIDDLE

But after a warm shower and a brisk towelling I felt fit as a fiddle and right in the mood. I must confess, for the forthcoming invitation of our gentleman friend to have a cocktail or two.

Well, we had one at the club and then went to a night club and danced, and there had another, or maybe it was two more cocktails. I figured with my exercises for the day plus the dancing I could afford to relax the rules a bit without it affecting my weight.

And I was right, as the scales this morning proved.

So her am I, three little pounds remaining between the formerly plump Mary Sullivan and myself. Let me at them.

Cheers and more cheers, Mary. We bet that last pound is feeling pretty mournful by now—absolutely doomed to extinction! Keep it up, kid!

Are Faces Red At Princeton!!

PRINCETON, N. J., Feb 13 (INS)—There was many a sheepish grin on the Princeton University campus today. And the subject of electric light bills was taboo.

It all resulted from the prank of eight imaginative students. They pooled resources and printed several hundred bills entitled "University Power Plant." They then proceeded to bill students for electricity. Of course, the university supplies this at no charge whatever.

Nevertheless, some 700 students rushed pell mell to the treasurer's office and plumped down sums ranging from 15 cents to $65, the amounts charged on the bills.

And Princeton is supposed to house some of the shrewdest and sharpest collegiate minds.

Vichy Puts Limit On Clothes Buying

VICHY, France, Feb. 13 (AP)—The government announced that ordinary clothing may be bought only for weddings, funerals of near relatives or return from a prison camp.

Until the next textile ration cards become available, such purchases may be made only by official authorization, upon written request. Shoes already are rationed.

Cuba Courts Democracies

HAVANA, Feb 13 (AP)—The Cuban cabinet announced today a series of measures described as aimed against "totalitarian activities" in following out the decree for the defense of democracy signed Jan 29 by President Fulgencio Batista.

The measures include:

A ban on the use of Italian, German, Spanish or Soviet Russian flags or emblems except by diplomats.

Prohibition of talking or writing about the United States or any other democracy with disrespect.

Orders to authorities to halt any political meeting where "any kind of totalitarian propaganda" is involved, and to close the main telegraphic and radio to such propaganda.

FROM the New Hampshire State House comes an interesting story.

The Associated Press reports it this way:

"CONCORD, N. H., Feb. 12 (AP)—Tax Commissioner Dudley W. Orr urged the House Judiciary Committee today to favor a bill for abolishment of the little town of Ellsworth, in the foothills of the White Mountains.

"The 26 citizens in the town, he declared, now had a single occupation, 'that of living off the town.' He described the community's financial condition as a 'disgraceful, extraordinary and outstanding example of mismanagement.'

"Orr said the town had a record high tax rate of $65 per $1000 of valuation, three farm buildings, four summer homes, 18 camps and one church.

"In 1921 the town had a valuation of $100,000, with a tax rate of $19, he said. Now the valuation is $32,000."

Ellsworth's imminent disappearance will interest thousands in every State of the Union.

For this is what happens when private industry and private initiative are abandoned in favor of putting everybody on the public payroll.

Of course, a badly managed town can be absorbed by its more efficiently conducted neighbors.

Not so with big cities, States and the Federal Government itself.

When their debts and taxes soar too far beyond the ability of the people to pay them, there is nothing but disaster and ruin for everybody, and the man on the public payroll fares no better than his neighbor who operates a business or runs a farm.

"NEVER SAY DIE" is as good a motto for municipalities as it is for individuals.

There is also an abundance of truth in that ancient advice, "the gods help those who help themselves."

We can think of no better illustration than the little town of Ware, Massachusetts.

Four years ago Ware's future was as dark as the proverbial thunder cloud.

The principal industry, a large textile mill, was closing down, and hundreds of men and women were losing their jobs.

No manufacturing organization seemed to want the factory. So, in their desperation, the townspeople banded together and purchased it.

Today, these persons who risked a little to save much are receiving dividend checks totalling $3507.

More important, hundreds have obtained employment in the thirty firms now housed in the mill.

Other New England industrial towns—and there are scores of them—would do well to take a leaf from Ware's book and profit by that town's commendable example.

A great many factories, now awaiting demolition, could be reopened and given defense orders if the communities in which the factories are located showed a more convincing disposition to help themselves.

AMERICANISM WEEK is now being observed throughout the United States, from Boston to San Francisco.

Every year the President proclaims the period between the birthdays of Abraham Lincoln and George Washington for this nationwide celebration.

During this time all Americans are urged to mark with joy and solemnity and with proper public ceremonies, the unique advantages they enjoy as a "nation conceived in liberty and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal."

Lincoln's remark that "the world has never had a good definition of the word 'liberty,' and the American people, just now, are much in want of one," can well be applied to the word "Americanism."

In fact, the words "liberty" and "justice" and "Americanism" may never be fully or adequately defined. In a great many ways, they all mean the SAME THING.

But their meanings are so inclusive, so grand in concept, so deep and inexhaustible, that a proper definition would become too long and detailed.

Actually, before we were through defining, we would realize that the only true definition is simply to put them INTO PRACTICE.

For this reason we have Americanism Week.

Of course, eleven days are not sufficient really to comprehend all that Americanism is.

Better indeed would be the practice of Americanism every day of the year, so that in time and with God's help we shall all come to a mid-February when we shall be able to celebrate triumphantly and gratefully our ACTUAL FULFILLMENT of Americanism.

"IF THE WOMEN of Pittsburgh or any other place want to be loved and have men take a chance on marrying them," writes a Boston bachelor, "let them concentrate more on their mental scope, grace, personality and intelligence, which is reflected in their taste for clothes and an ability to give something to companionship besides their mere presence. The increase in dizzy dames is astonishing and alarming to those of us seeking capable and dependable life partners." Do you agree with this?

PREFERENCES: Best singing sister act I have heard so far is the Andrews Sisters. My favorite dancing act was Doyle and Dixon. For ballroom dancing teams, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Castle still rate on top in my book. Operatic basso I enjoyed most was Jose Mardones. I think Robert Donat is the best film actor. Whatever Robert Louis Stevenson has written I read and read again and never tire of it. "Boswell's Life of Johnson" and "Pepys Diary" I can pick up repeatedly, start reading anywhere, and be entertained. For popular song singing give me Bing Crosby or Kenny Baker. I think Hollywood could do a lot more with Kenny than it has so far. He has an appeal something similar to that of Charles Ray, of the silent era.

PLEASE NOTE: Added to my list of great red-haired men of today is British Prime Minister Winston Churchill. Last time I mentioned red-haired men a feminine client wrote: "How about the red-haired women?" Well there's Jeanette MacDonald, Janet Gaynor, Clara Bow and I will think of some more later . . . Is there anybody present who was born on Feb. 29? Why don't you organize a February Twenty-Niners Club and demand four presents on your birthdays? . . . "Is it true Sandra Cooper, wife of Gary, chooses all her husbands clothes?" asks a San Franciscan. I asked Mr. Cooper, and he said in slightly indignant tones: "All my wife ever selected or bought for me was a pair of tennis shoes, and they didn't fit."

SIDELIGHTS: "What is the largest city in the country named after an Indian?" It is Seattle, Wash., named after Chief Seattle . . . A man named Peirce complains to a newspaper that his name in an item was spelled Pierce. Recalls the resident of Cleveland who squawked to a newspaper, saying his name had been spelled Mizziplylaws Dzsidosz when it should have been spelled Miecslaws Dziadosz . . . The argument continues as to who originated the expressions "There are no pockets in a shroud" and "You can't take it with you." Didn't it start in the Bible, Timothy 6-7 which says: "For we brought nothing into this world, and it is certain we can carry nothing out" . . . Sign noted: "Our Ice Cream is Awful Fresh."

-:- MY DAY

WASHINGTON, Wednesday — I wonder how many of you noticed in the papers an announcement of Negro History Week, which runs from Feb. 9 to Feb. 16. I have long felt that, while we are in school, all of us should learn more about the contributions of the various races making up the people of the United States of America since the beginning of its history.

At the same time, it is important to know each year, what special contributions have been made by different groups in their different fields of endeavor.

A nationwide poll is conducted each year by the Schomburg collection of Negro literature of the New York Public Library, to determine the 12 Negroes (individuals, organizations or institutions) who have most distinguished themselves during the past year.

At the same time, they choose six white people, or institutions, who have done most toward the improvement of race relations "in terms of a real democracy."

THIS, I THINK, is valuable in giving recognition where it is due, and in keeping us aware of the contributions of our various racial groups. We should be grateful for what they achieve, for it is the sum total of all our achievements which makes the greatness of our country, and we must feel pride in every individual who contributes to the whole.

Yesterday afternoon, I attended the reception given by the Congressional Club, and went from there to a fashion show and a tea given at the Shoreham Hotel for the benefit of the good-will industries.

I came home in time to welcome a guest from New York city, Miss Esther Lape, and to prepare for the early dinner which always precedes the big receptions.

LAST NIGHT the reception was the largest we have held this year and the most brilliant, for uniforms predominated and plain evening clothes were rather conspicuous. The Army and Navy reception is apt to bring many friends and acquaintances together, but in spite of the President's habit of stopping people to talk to them, they go by with such precision and rapidity that it does not take much longer than other receptions.

By 10:30, the President was able to be upstairs with the door of his study shut on the outer world, while Mr. Willkie told him of his European impressions. I went to work on my mail and found the President still awake at quarter before one.

I feel sure that whatever report Mr. Willkie gave was not depressing, for the President turned everything we talked about into a humorous story.

This morning we are going down to the Lincoln Memorial, where a wreath will be placed to commemorate the day. Then we shall await the arrival of the Grand Duchess of Luxemburg, with her husband and son.

CLARE BOOTHE MAY ACCEPT ROLE

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK, Feb. 13—The Department of Justice's anti-trust division had subpoenas out yesterday for the officials of one of the largest gyroscope companies in the country. The federal grand jury will hear their testimony and see their books this week . . . Clare Boothe is reconciled to playing a role in "The Yohimoe Tree," the new show she's written with Alexander King—if she can't find another actress to play the part satisfactorily . . . John Cowles, the newspaper publisher who accompanied Wendell Willkie on his trip to Europe, won't write any articles about that trip for any of the newspapers and magazines with which he is associated. He prefers to have Willkie tell it all . . . When the arrangements for the Defense Loan Bonds are completed, the setup will be supervised by a young woman who is one of Wall Street's bond experts.

SANFORD MEISNER of the Group Theatre met Mrs. Jacob P. Adler—mother of Luther, Stella and all the other Adlers of the theater. "In your long career on the stage," Meisner asked, "did you ever play Anna Karenina?" . . . "Did I play Anna Karenina?" repeated Mrs. Adler. "You mean that play which starts off with the big love scene"—and then Mrs. Adler enacted the love scene . "You mean the play," she continued, "which has that big disappointed-romance scene" — and then Mrs. Adler recited every line of that scene of unrequited love . . . "And you mean the play," she concluded, "which has the suicide scene for a finish?" —and then she gave full vent to the emotions expressed by Anna Karenina, hurling herself in front of the train which ended her life . . . "Is that the play you mean?" asked Mrs. Adler . . . "Yes, that's the one," Meisner told her . . . "That play," said the venerable lady, "I never did."

MAYOR LaGUARDIA will dine at the White House today . . . Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., is up for membership at the Harvard Club . . . Harry Hopkins, now en route here, is bringing a movie short called "This Is England," for which Ed Murrow, the London correspondent, did the commentary . . . The London Express' glass-facade now has been covered with bricks . . . The Manton case is not closed yet. Its newest offshoot involves a lawyer and a $12,500 fee he received . . . Doris Nolan and Edith Atwater, now touring in "The Man Who Came to Dinner," played in Bridgeport—which is now booming with defense projects. The pretty actresses walked to the theater, and the defense laborers ogled, whistled and suggested dates. Miss Atwater turned to Miss Nolan and said: "We must go out of town more often. We're sensational.'

PAN-AMERICAN'S 10-page brochure stressing Willkie's trip misspells his name . . . Amon Carter, the Ft. Worth publisher, was visited by the editor of the rival Dallas News, who told him: "I like to come over to your little town, Amon, and see what our back yard looks like." Carter replied: "Dallas will be a big city only when it has a front yard which looks as good as its back yard" . . . Henry Armstrong, who retired from the prize ring, will enter the wine business in association with Constantine Skouras of the theater clan . . . John Garfield was reluctant to take a role in "The Gentle People." "They want me to play a Fascist," he lamented, "and what would my friends say?" The persuader was: "They'll say it's wonderful. Because if you play a Fascist, and the character is so hateful that not only your friends but everybody who sees it will hate you—then that's pure anti-Fascism." Garfield was convinced and took the role.

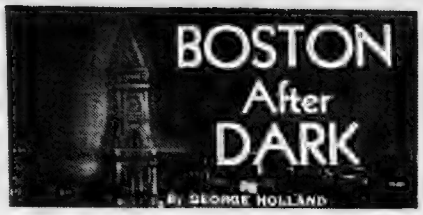
A YOUNG MAN stopped Artie Shaw and said: "Hello. Remember me?" . . . "No," the band leader confessed . . . "Well, you should," the youngster assured him, and then hinted, "y'know, the Syracuse prom" . . . "How long ago?" asked Shaw . . . "Three years ago," he was told . . . "I don't remember," Shaw answered. "After all, that was a one-nighter, and we played those all over the country. Hundreds of them" . . . The youngster started to leave in disappointment. Then he returned and suggested, eagerly: "But I was the one who requested 'Stardust.'"



MEMO TO MYSELF: "Dear George (If I May)—Just couldn't let your grammatical error pass. Appeared in Monday's paper . . . Unless the 'King's English' has gone modern, I was taught to use 'between' only when distinguishing two persons or objects. Always to use 'among' or 'amongst' when three or more were involved. Am I not right?

"ENCLOSED YOU WILL find clipping with offending words underlined . . . Would like to know your ideas on the subject . . . Perhaps you couldn't make reference to it in your column, but I'll be on the watch, nevertheless . . . That annoyed me as much as hearing a starched cuff rub along a blackboard. (No, I'm not a school teacher) . . . Sincerely, 'Ruthie' with the Light Brown Hair (not turning gray, either)."

MEMO TO "RUTHIE" With the Light Brown Hair: You are so correct, my dear . . . The error was flagrant . . . We have no alibi . . . If language is to remain the medium of communication between individuals, even the intensity of the times does not make it less incumbent on us who write for a living to abide by the rules . . . We are supposed to be professionals

I DARESAY THAT A READER like you, "Ruthie," who takes the trouble to correct an error in elementary grammar, is entitled to contemplate a real masterpiece in garbling the mother tongue.

COINCIDENTALLY, this epic in mistakes appeared the same Monday in a spirited essay on tolerance inspired by the Boston College Alumni Dinner, where Southerners and damYankees sat around together in prime goodfellowship and exchanged compliments on brotherhood and good will which must have been somewhat befuddling to dusky Lou Montgomery, who had to play in a game of his own instead of with his teammates against Tennessee . . . Now, there's a long sentence for you, Ruthie.

BUT HAVE A GLANCE at this one! . . . It was written by a foremost Boston sports authority, whose flaming rhetoric daily serves as a stimulating tonic to hosts of New Englanders, including this one . . . The sentence, containing five glaring grammatical errors, and possibly six, follows: "What you won't read perhaps, but what is of greater power and value, so far as you, me and the rest of this big team of ours is concerned are the strong bonds of perhaps, a new understanding that it really doesn't make much difference where a fellow lives, nor how he says his A's, that a man's a man, a friend's a friend, and that we all can, and should be, standing solidly as 'brother stands to brother,' in these whole United States."

APPRECIATING YOUR ATTENTION to writing details, Ruthie with the Light Brown Hair, perhaps you can discover more "skulls" in this burst than these: (1) the use of an objective case as the subject of a verb;

PEGGY FEARS

She Appears at Latin Quarter This Spring

(2) a singular verb after a compound subject; (3) parallel clauses not in parallel construction; (4) a so-called squinting construction with misplaced modifiers; (5) two errors of punctuation.

IN THE ESSAY IN WHICH this amazing sentence appeared, a Dartmouth song was quoted, to wit: ". . . stand as brother stands to brother, dare a deed for the Old Mother" . . . You dared to speak your mind, Ruthie, and a couple of daring deeds between us—you and me—may help the Old Mother—Mother English . . . Thanks, Ruthie. Come again!

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY: Peggy Fears (Blumenthal), a great hit at Miami's Club Bali, will make her first Boston appearance this spring at the Latin Quarter . . . Johnny Orlando's friends will be out in force tonight, when Mickey Alpert & Co. will be honoring the Red Sox trainer at the Cocoanut Grove.

SHE'LL STAR WITH CLARK GABLE

By Louella O. Parsons

Rosalind Russell

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 13—Rosalind Russell, who hasn't lighted long enough at M-G-M to make a movie there in over a year, checks in at her home lot for "Uniform." That's a surprise move, you will admit, since Hedy Lamarr was supposed to be teamed with Clark Gable. But Hedy has been really sick, first with the flu and then with several refractory wisdom teeth that took her into the hospital.

Roz's nomination for the role implies more than appears on the surface. Her contract with M-G-M is about up and she has been loath to re-sign because she has been either at Columbia or Universal since she made "The Women." She has made more pictures at Columbia than she has for her home studio. But "Uniform," with Gable as the male attraction and Clarence Brown megaphoning, will probably solve the contract problem.

JOAN MERRILL

How well I remember the last time Gable and Roz were teamed. It was in "China Seas" with Jean Harlow as the lead and Roz as the lady he forgot when he met the alluring little Harlow. They all appeared on the Hollywood Hotel program in one of the first previews of its kind.

NOT SINCE Alice Faye has Rudy Vallee had a protegee who showed so much promise as Joan Merrill. Just as Alice and Rudy were smitten with each other in the beginning, I hear that Mr. Vallee's interest in the pretty Merrill girl is slightly on the romantic side, too.

Be that as it may, Columbia has just handed Joan a contract and is featuring her in a picture with Rudy titled "Show Business"—which is good business, if you ask me. She has appeared on his radio shows and they tell me the gal was a sensation singing in New York.

In addition to Joan and Rudy, "Show Business" will also have the box-office services of Glen Gray and his Casa Loma band to help bring in the shekels.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD: Bettye Avery, who announced her engagement to Governor Lehman's nephew, finding Bently Ryan, young attorney, good company. They drove me home the other eve; look out Honolulu! Mickey Rooney leaves Friday (lucky guy) for the Tropical Isles; Carmen and John Considine entertaining Father Flanagan of Boystown fame at Ciro's. It is Carmen's first public appearance since the birth of young Timmy and she looked exceptionally well.

The Sergei Rachmaninoffs hosting a party also at Ciro's almost 100 per cent Russian—Gregory Ratoff, Akim Tamiroff, and Mischa Auer; Carole Landis and Ed Norris have discovered each other; Priscilla Lane and David Lewis in a big discussion at the Wilshire Bowl.

Joan Crawford will spend her vacation in Mexico City —not New York as everyone expected; Bette Davis is the latest to enroll as a Spanish student.

FROM EXTRA BOY to writer sounds a little Horatio Algerish, but nevertheless that's exactly what happened to James Langham. Up to a few days ago he was just a part of the movie atmosphere. Today he is a writer on the Paramount lot by order of Buddy De Sylva, the new production boss, and this is how it happened: Langham was telling a story to some of his pals in the commissary. Buddy overheard bits of it and was intrigued. He asked the extra to come to his office with the result that the story "Sing a Song of Homicide" not only won Langham an immediate check but future remittances as well, for it will be a series.

ONE MORE familiar face at Paramount studios is missing. A. M. Botsford, who has been with Paramount 19 years, tendered his resignation today to go with William Le Baron, with whom he has been associated as executive producer.

I have known Botsford since the days I was on the Morning Telegraph and he was advertising director for Para.

I couldn't help thinking the other day when I was at Para and walked down the corridor, how many of the old friends are no longer there—Adolph Zukor, Jesse Lasky, Louis Lighton, Harold Hurley, Al Kaufman, Henry Herzbrun, who went back to his law practice, and scores of others who used to call friendly greetings are no longer members of the Para personnel.

"THIS THING CALLED LOVE," in which Rosalind Russell and Melvyn Douglas are currently disporting at Loew's State and Orpheum, has so pleased the customers that the movie stays for another five days.

Joan Collette Coming to Globe

Statuesque Joan Collette is the stellar attraction coming to the Globe tomorrow with the new traveling burlesque show. They give her a place among the shapeliest dancers on the stage today; a belle with opulent charms. Crystal Ames, Gloria Lee and Donnie Shaw will take part in the beauty show punctuated with dances and poses. The Bernadoll also is prominently and spectacularly in all the Globe productions, will have a new dance ensemble, which sounded over the 'phone as if it were called "Asket Bust." The Globe management was terribly excited about it. Also about the stage and so shapely Miss Collette.

This new production will mark the Globe's 6th anniversary as one of the leading burlesque houses. On the laugh bill will be "Peanuts" Bohn, Bert Bernt, Buddy Dubois, Irving Benson, Harry Ryan and the acrobatic comedy makers who call themselves the Matrix.

Vaudeville headliners will be the Tivoli troupe, specialists in dance, with six other performers surrounding them. On the screen will be "The Return of the Cisco Kid," starring Warner Baxter, and "The Buccaneer," with Fredric March in the title role.

Lots of Thrills In 'Hudson Bay'

By JOYCE DANA

Canada—she's-a joost one lovelee lady to Paul Muni who, at the Keith Memorial adds French Canuck dialect to his heavy make-up in "Hudson's Bay," a story of 17th century days in the north country.

Muni is Pierre Esprit Raddison, who knows where the beaver and mink play through his good friends the Indians. There's a million-dollar fortune up in the icy wilderness, but when Pierre tries to enlist a small sub.idy from the British governor of the little outpost at Albany he and his man-mountain major domo, Gooseberry, get thrown into jail as a pair of rogues. Languishing in the same dungeon is Lord Edward Carewe who, having incurred the displeasure of England's Charles II, has been exiled to the new world.

How the three make their escape, fight their way through the frozen lakes and ice-capped mountains of Ontario, load up their big canoes with 300,000 pelts and get back to Montreal, make up the first half of this picturesque if somewhat static story, which incidentally cries out loud for technicolor.

It's in Montreal that their precious furs are confiscated, and it's there that with the help of their good friend Chief Thundercloud, to say nothing of Gooseberry's mighty walloping fists, they get them back again and set sail for the court of the King of England. But Charles is more interested in pretty Nell Gwyn than in chartering the Hudson's Bay Company, and it takes a powerful lot of talk, including of course some impassioned orating by Muni, before they set sail again to hoist the British flag over the Canada Bay.

Laird Cregar as Gooseberry, a perfect giant of a fellow, is an interesting newcomer, as is handsome John Sutton as the titled Englishman who learns to rough it and like it. Gene Tierney appears briefly and prettily for just a dash of romance, and Vincent Price makes his part as the fashion-plate king a standout.

John Barrymore and a lot of thick photography are combined in "The Invisible Woman," also at the Memorial. Virginia Bruce is the lovely now-you-see-her-and-now-you-don't lady.

Church Dignitaries Approve Mass Film

"The Perpetual Sacrifice," a film dramatization of the holy sacrifice of the mass, will have its first New England showing at Town Hall (in the Civic Repertory Theater building), 264 Huntington ave., Boston, beginning on Thursday, Feb. 20.

Produced by Religious Films, Inc., of San Antonio, Tex., with the approval and co-operation of church dignitaries, this feature length film, complete with sound, has already had extensive showings in the Southwest.

It has appeal for those of all religious faiths, for the mass is always a source of mystery to those outside the Catholic faith.

100th Performance For 'Twelfth Night'

Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night" comedy is having its first 100th consecutive performance on Broadway today, with Helen Hayes and Maurice Evans as the stars, and this is the longest run on record for the old timer.

IN THE ARMY NOW—Bud Abbott and Lou Costello, comics to the core, are deliriously patriotic in "Buck Privates," beginning today on the Metropolitan's screen.

Summer Theater for Emerson

Emerson College will sponsor a summer theater in its new playhouse on the Charles River Esplanade. The company, to be recruited from young players who have appeared in summer theaters, will be under the direction of Gertrude Binley Kay, a member for many years of the Castle Square Stock Company, and formerly a leading player with the late Charles Frohman in New York.

Heading the group as leading man is Stewart MacGregor, who supported Effie Shannon this past summer in revivals of "Morning's at Seven." Robert J. Wade, formerly art director of the Vineyard Players, Oak Bluffs, Mass., has been engaged as stage designer.

"Idiot's Delight" may be the opening attraction.

Towne Combines Writing, Acting

The perfect title for a novel to be published on St. Valentine's Day is the invention of Charles Nanson Towne, the eminent writer turned Thespian who is currently portraying the genial clergyman in "Life With Father" at the Civic Repertory.

His latest volume, the 25th of his eminent career, is called "Pretty Girls Get There." D. Appleton-Century Co are bringing out the novel tomorrow.

Mr. Towne's previous works have divided pretty evenly between poetry, fiction, and travel and general interest. His contribution to New England lore is contained in his "Jogging Around New England."

'Arizona' Heads Bill On Uptown Screen

Western melodrama starring Jean Arthur and musical comedy starring Fred Astaire and Paulette Goddard are the bill opening at the Uptown tomorrow.

The Arthur film is "Arizona," with the star as the girl unafraid of any land or cattle thief. William Holden, Warren William and Sidney Buckman head the supporting cast.

"Second Chorus" is the Astaire-Goddard offering, in which Burgess Meredith, Charles Butterworth and the Artie Shaw band frame conspicuously.

'Down Argentine Way' at Tremont

Pictures billed at the Tremont for the next three days are "Down Argentine Way," with Don Ameche, Betty Grable and Carmen Miranda, and "Intermezzo," with Leslie Howard and Ingrid Bergman.

HEARTS AND FLOWERS and Cupid's other romantic symbols still have the greatest charm for Valentine party decorations. The golden arrow is typical of the 1941 vogue for old-fashioned sentiment.

Let's Have a Valentine Party!

By MARTHA LEE

VALENTINE'S DAY always makes a delightful time for a party, whether for the very young or an older group, and it suggests decorations and novelties for refreshments that come no other day in the year. This year especially there is a trend toward emphasizing romantic sentiments in decorative schemes.

One of the favorite ways of expressing Valentine Day sentiment in great-grandmother's day was the use of entwined hearts. Some of the smart 1941 valentine centerpieces revive this charming custom.

Whatever you do, red will be a part of the refreshment color scheme—just the color to make food look gay and partyish. Shrimp with their bright pink color for salad, or individual tomato gelatin salads on lettuce with cold cuts, are colorful and appropriate for a bridge luncheon or supper. Sandwiches can be cut in heart shapes.

For dessert, this colorful cranberry fruit sherbet with its fruity tang will be just what is wanted.

CRANBERRY FRUIT SHERBET

1 cup sugar
¾ cup water
½ cup molasses
3 bananas
½ cup orange juice
¼ cup lemon juice
1 cup fresh cranberry pulp, or 1 cup canned cranberries
2 egg whites
2 tbsp. sugar

Boil sugar and water for five minutes. Add molasses and chill. Force bananas through a sieve. Cook 2 cups of cranberries with 1 cup of water until soft, then force through a sieve and chill. Combine banana pulp, 1 cup of the cranberry pulp (or 1 cup of canned cranberries) and the fruit juice, and add to the molasses syrup. Beat egg whites until foamy, then beat in the 2 tablespoons of sugar. Combine with the fruit mixture. Place in tray of mechanical refrigerator and freeze at lowest temperature. When frozen ½ inch from sides of pan, beat thoroughly with a spoon, being careful to not allow mixture to melt. Return to refrigerator and continue freezing to right consistency.

CRIMSON HEART CAKE

2 cups sifted cake flour
2 tsp. baking powder
½ tsp. salt
2-3 cup butter or other shortening
1½ cups sugar
3 eggs
2-3 cup milk
1 tsp. vanilla

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift together three times. Cream butter thoroughly, add sugar gradually, and cream together until light and fluffy. Beat the eggs until very thick and light; add them to the creamed mixture and beat well. Add flour, alternately with milk, a small amount at a time, beating after each addition until smooth. Add vanilla. Bake in two greased 9-inch layer pans in moderate oven (375 deg. F.) 25 minutes, or until done. Split layers in half. To put cake together, spread lemon filling between layers and seven minute frosting generously on top and sides of cake. Using paper pattern and toothpick, outline heart, about 5½ inches wide, on top of cake. Melt ¼ cup currant jelly, cool to lukewarm, and spread to fill in heart shape. Sprinkle ½ cup cocoanut on sides of cake.

LEMON FILLING

½ cup sugar
2½ tbsp. cake flour
Dash of salt
1 egg, slightly beaten
1-3 cup water
1-6 cup lemon juice
½ tsp. grated lemon rind
1 tsp. butter

Combine sugar, flour and salt in top of double boiler; add egg yolks, water and lemon juice, mixing thoroughly. Place over boiling water and cook 10 minutes, stirring constantly. Add lemon rind and butter. Cool. Makes about 1½ cups filling.

Your Birthday Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Thursday, February 13, 1941

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY—You are generous, unique, energetic. A tendency to "dream" while you work can result in a lack of proper concentration for adequate and complete use of your varied talents! You are artistic, musical; interesting, magnetic; humane. Control your emotions, don't ever permit them to injure your disposition. Profit by your, and others', experiences. Be worthy of your fine heritage and citizenship!

LUCKY NUMBER—Today's lucky number is 33.

LUCKY COLOR—Today's lucky color is pearl gray.

Good Manners

Solving Dinner Problems

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

These questions I am asking may seem idiotic, I am sure, but I need help and you seem so friendly and understanding about it all. Will you help me, please?

1—Who sits in the arm chair at the dinner table, the mother or the father?

2—When a meal is served from the dinner table, does the host begin by serving the meat first, or does the hostess begin the serving from her end of the table?

3—Who sits at the head of the table—the man or the woman?

4—When you have only coffee, should the coffee be served with the main dinner or with the dessert?

S.

1—Usually, if there are arm chairs at all in the dining-room set of chairs, there are two, one for the hostess and one for the host. If there is only one, it probably could be assigned to the hostess. But there's no rule about this.

2—The host begins the serving, by carving and serving the meat at his end of the table. Then, if the vegetables, and so forth, are at his end of the table, he serves these next. If they are to be served at the hostess' end of the table, he passes the plate with the meat on it, and the hostess adds the other food items of the course. The idea to remember is that, in serving, we serve the food items of a course in the order of their importance to the course: first, the meat, then the vegetables, and then the accessories, such as mint jelly for lamb, and last the bread or toast.

4—Coffee is served according to the preference of the household. At an informal family dinner it may be served during the main course, if that is the family's choice, or with or after the dessert. The more gracious table-service is for the hostess to bring in or have brought in, the coffee service, placed either before her place at table, or on a serving-table on her right, and served from there.

Best of all, most charming, leisurely and appropriate for informal and for formal service, is the serving of the after-dinner coffee in the living-room. It's no trouble at all, and is a gracious gesture.

You Can Be Beautiful

If You're a Golden Girl

By ARLINE GOULD

IF YOU'RE a golden girl . . . if you have tones of apricot in your skin and a burnish of gold in your hair . . . then come what color fads may, the ideal lip make-up tone for you is a sun gold red. And that's been a little hard to find. Some of yesterday's shades may have been a little harsh and hard.

There is a new "nasturtium" shade which is THE one . . . because it has combined sunny redness with a pastel undertone . . . making it quite different from any nasturtium which might have come before. And . . . if you're wise to what colors can do for your skin . . . you realize this one and the new-fashioned rosy pink-ted are more youthful than any other tint in the whole color spectrum of lipsticks.

Nasturtium red has the advantage over rose red in that it's more effervescent . . . more . . . enchanting as a beautiful smile. And it is just this minute arriving in town. It's ideal for a cruise make-up . . . but just as happy and appropriate for the new hat you're going to have to brighten up your winter overcoat!

You may, of course, buy the lipstick and rouge separately. But for approximately the price of these, we think the smart buy is a smart little purse kit . . . this includes a small stick of the new lip rouge, an ivory plastic compact of cheek rouge, a matching compact of loose powder and a big soft puff . . . and the gaily striped shantung case itself! For $1.50 . . . it's a smart buy, yes?

If you'd like shopping information on "nasturtium" make-up and the shantung purse kit, phone Arline Gould, LIBerty 4000, week-days except Saturday, or write, care of the Boston Evening American, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

EASTER bonnets made their debut at yesterday's Morning Musicale, and ran the gamut of frivolity from a tiny dip of shiny black straw draped with a long and vivid red veil to the doll hat of pink and blue bows which diva Lotte Lehmann, the guest artist, wore with her gown of pale gray lame . . .

The concert was the fifth and next to last in this year's series to benefit the Boston School of Occupational Therapy . . and subscribers were reminded of how time flies when they found the schedule for next year's concerts tucked in their programs . . . Exclamations of delight were heard on all sides as music lovers expressed their approval of the committee's choice of artists for '41-'42 . . . but everyone's second thought was how to pronounce the tongue-twisting name of the first soloist, Jussi Bjoerling, who opens the series on Nov. 12th! . . . The other artists will be Robert Casadesus, Helen Traubel, Tito Schipa, Jascha Heifetz, and Gladys Swarthout, a representative group of musicians from soprano to violinist . . .

But to get back to yesterday's audience at the Statler Ballroom . . . spring hats were sported by Dottie O'Day, Mrs. Harry Hayward, Mrs. Benjamin Read, Mrs. Frank Stewart and many others . . . Mrs. Read and her friend, Miss Margaret Brayton, who never miss a concert, drove up from Fall River and were joined for luncheon in the Terrace Room by Mrs. Everett Read and Mrs. Arthur Delano before embarking on an afternoon tour of the shops .

A Cluster of Yellow Buttercups

MRS. BENJAMIN READ wore a springlike cluster of yellow buttercups on her furs and a jaunty little toast straw hat fastened to her head with a snood of brown taffeta . . . Mrs. Everett Read chose a teal blue costume, Miss Brayton wore a tailored black hat with her silky caracul coat and Mrs. Delano was in modish gray with Krimmer trimming and a bright red quill in her hat . . .

Chatting about the latest headlines during the coffee hour preceding the concert were Mrs. Robert Stevenson who brightened her brown outfit with a cream antelope hat trimmed with pheasant feathers, Mrs. Paul Bell in modish black and a mink coat, Mrs. Walter Van Kleeck whose black pleated dress was topped by a London squirrel jacket and hat, Mrs. Sinclair Weeks in gray, and Mrs. William H. Coolidge in a family group with her daughter, Mrs. Samuel Stevens and granddaughter, Mrs. James A. Hutchinson, Jr. . . .

A Throng of Music Lovers

MRS. FREDERICK WEATHERBEE attended with her daughter. Mrs. Charles Vallendar, Jr., and others in the throng of music lovers were Mrs. Gilman Angier, Mrs. Francis Breed in black and mink trim, Mrs. Edward Perry whose black suit was trimmed with silver fox, and Mrs. J. Willard Hayden with her guest, Mrs. Frederick H. Baird . . . Mrs. Hayden wore a mink coat and Mrs. Baird's blue dress and hat were worn with a seal coat . . .

Blonde Mrs. Charles Sykes, who is home from England for the duration, wore turquoise and gray checked tweeds with a turquoise jersey blouse and sporty turquoise hat, and Mrs. William Andres was in black with touches of red . . Mrs Richard Sprague, Mrs. E. Fred Cullen, Mrs. Walter Merriam Pratt in black with a lavish beaver collar, pockets and muff, Mrs. George Cushing, Mrs Robert Treat Paine and Mrs. Richard Sears were others in the fashionable audience . . .

Many Dinners Before Ball

MRS. JAMES W. MOSS, chairman of out-of-town dinners before the British War Relief Society Ball next week, is setting a good example by giving a dinner party herself at her Chestnut Hill home. Others helping her interest out-of-towners in getting up dinneds before bringing their guests on to the ball at the Copley-plaza are three of her neighbors, Mrs. F. Dennette Adams, Miss Eleanor M. Dewey and Mrs. Langdon Parsons, and Mrs. Henry Gilman Nichols of Lincoln.

Mr. S. Hooper Hooper, one time arbiter of Boston society and leader of the old Boston Assemblies, is among the earliest ticket holders for the ball on the 20th, which will combine the best features of the Bachelors Ball and the Modern Arts Ball which have been cancelled this year due to the urgency of war relief work.

Mr. and Mrs. George Barton are coming from Worcester for the gala affair and others making reservations for tables and boxes from George H. Burnett, treasurer of the ball are Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Zemurray, Mrs. Pierpont L. Stackpole, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Berenson, Mr. and Mrs. T. Jefferson Coolidge, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Guild, and Mrs. Frederick Quinn, who is having a party of four.

Proceeds of the ball will be applied by the British War Relief Society to Britain's most urgent relief needs, with comparatively few deductions for expense since services and prizes are being freely donated. There will be an all-star floor show at midnight which patrons may view from tables provided they make reservations in good time.

EUNICE AVERY TO LECTURE ON ITALY

Mrs. William A Robb will be hostess, and Mrs. Preston Stephenson head usher at the next lecture in the series "Interpretations of World Events" to be given by Miss Eunice Avery tomorrow morning in the Copley Plaza ballroom. The subject will be "Italy, the Boot in the Mediterranean." The series benefits the Children's Hospital.

Mrs. Edwin Cave, Mrs. Cushing Carleton and Mrs. Roderic MacDonald will serve as ticket takers.

Love And Marriage

Wasting Her Time

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

For a long time I've been in love with a man of 24; I'm 23. He told me often that he loved me and asked me to marry him. We set the date for the wedding, but as the time drew near he said he couldn't get married at that date.

My birthday came and he didn't give me anything. He forgot me last Easter, and now at Christmas he didn't remember me with even a small gift. I can't understand it. He has just passed me up entirely. I know he can afford to get married because he has a good position. PUZZLED.

I hope you'll forget this man as soon as possible. He has given you every reason to believe that he is through; why try to hang on like a leaf to a dead tree? I know you will be wise.

Buy yourself some new and good-looking clothes—they are not so expensive right now, and if you will look around for bargains, it will help you believe in yourself. Go out as much as you can, accept invitations from your other boy friends, give a party yourself. You're only 23—a whole life-time of opportunity is before you. Good luck to you.

HOSTESS TO VOTERS

Mrs Gilbert Cox of Eaton rd., Needham, will be hostess at a meeting o. the Needham League of Women Voters this afternoon. Mrs. Horace Moulton will preside and Mrs. F. J. Roethlisberger, state chairman of legislation, will present the legislative program of the Mass League of Women Voters.

Committee members for the affair include the Misses Marian Andrews of Belmont, Elizabeth McGiew of Medford, Mary Kelley, Mary Kenirv, Louise Nelian and Ann Hayden, all of Cambridge.

LISTEN, WORLD! By Elsie Robinson

AFTER you're 45 you begin thinking about how different life would have been IF—you'd married the other man, or the other woman. Or not married at all.

If you'd stayed in the little town where you were born, content to jog on the dear familiar [illegible] humdrum up you; if life with the dear, familiar [illegible] would have been [illegible]

Or if you HADN'T [illegible] town.

If, instead, you'd [illegible] Big World [illegible]

Broken all the old ties [illegible] yourself to meet new [illegible] new faces, what then?

If you'd gone on with [illegible] where you started [illegible] back on ambition or [illegible] restlessness, been content with slow but safe advancement?

Or, perhaps, due [illegible] thing, forced you [illegible] to! shamed you; owing [illegible] regarded neighbors [illegible] en a chance?

AFTER you're 4[illegible] you begin to ask questions like that—begin an endless see-sawing of wonder and regret. Thinking it all over—and you do very little else—sometimes you're sad; sometimes you're glad; sometimes you're mad.

But always you're puzzled.

HOW DIFFERENT WOULD LIFE HAVE BEEN, IF

Probably very little different in the long run, partner. For our fate isn't determined by the places we go, or the people we know, or the things we do. It is determined by our personal reaction to these things—to all things. And your reaction, in all probability, would have been pretty much the same wherever you'd gone, whatever you'd done.

Ol' Houn' Dog

By Charles McGuirk

IF YOU HAD TOLD the Torlands that they were ruining the life of their son, Wade, and depriving him of his childhood, they would have smiled superciliously because they were that kind of people and would have referred you to his daily routine which, they thought, would prove otherwise.

At 12 years of age, he had his own car and his own chauffeur to drive him to Kindling's exclusive private school every morning. He had any sort of toy he wanted. He had a tuxedo in which to dress when he went to the formal little dances that were part of the curriculum of this dancing school.

All Wade ever had to do was to express a wish for anything. If it were fitting that he should have it, it was in the apartment before he could say Jack Robinson. Yes, he had everything a boy could wish for and yet he wasn't happy.

Mrs. Torland was remarking it to Mr. Torland for the 50th time in a month. The indifference of her son annoyed her. She pretended it was alarm but it was just annoyance. She was a woman of a very determined blondeness in her early 40's, prettily in an attitudinized way. She had never quite forgiven Nature for sending Wade to her after 10 years of a married life in which no provision had been made for children.

When he arrived, of course, she adored him. She was haunted by the fear that now that he was here, she might lose him. So all his life, she had smothered him with personal attention and attendants while, at the same time, strangling his more vulgar impulses.

Wade was a nice kid. He was good looking. He had blue eyes and a smiling mouth. He spoke softly, not only because of his training, but because he was inherently gentle.

Wade's indifference to everything around him increased after he had visited Grandfather Torland who lived in Livingston, New Jersey. It was Mrs. Torland's private opinion that her father-in-law was not of the elect. He was a blustery, vulgar man who liked to eat, drink, hunt fish and play cards for money.

So Wade came back after three days with a terrible dog. He was a half-grown hound and he proceeded to tear the nice Wade apartment to shreds. He was ugly and ungainly. He had no manners. He chewed everything from chair legs to table cloths and bed sheets. Mrs. Torland stood him in the house for two days and then she laid down the law.

"Jim," she told her husband, "either that dog gets out of here or I do. At once."

So Mr. Torland called up his father and told him the news.

"Well," boomed the old man, "are you a man or a milksop? Why don't you let her go? She'll be back."

But Jim apologized and Grandpa sent a man for the dog.

He was gone when Wade got home. Wade looked all over the apartment for him and then he faced his mother.

"Where's Sooner, Mother?" he demanded.

Mrs. Torland looked at her son and a ridiculous chill of fear struck her.

"You mean that awful dog, dear?" she asked. "Why, he was so messy around the house and he tore up so many things that I asked grandpa to take him back. The man came for him today."

Wade looked at her with a bewilderment which changed slowly to something uncomfortably like hate.

"But mother is getting you another dog," she told him. "He's very cute and he's guaranteed to be housebroken and not to tear up anything. He'll be here any minute now."

"I don't want another dog," Wade said patiently. "I want Sooner."

He turned away then and his indifference began. It was not broken when his mother ushered in a prancing poodle.

"Here's your new puppy, Darling," she told him.

"Isn't he the cutest thing?"

Wade's eyes went over him and he looked away. He never looked back at the dog again.

His indifference changed to apathy in the days that followed. He was as polite and mannerly as ever but he paid no attention to his work at school and he paid no more to what went on about him at home. His indifference got into his appetite and at the dinner table, he pushed dish after dish away.

His mother was very much annoyed. She told her husband that Wade was just sulking and probably faking his whole indifference in the hope that they would reconsider their decision about that terrible dog. Well, she wouldn't! She was an authority on faking.

But Jim Torland flew into a rare and terrible rage and told her that no boy of his was capable of such a feminine trick, and if he was, it was her fault because, all his life she had tried her best to make a ninny out of him. Her tears didn't do her any good either.

"Look, Gladys," Jim told her wearily, "you can cry your eyes out but as long as Wade acts this way I'm going to worry about him. Not you. If anything happens to him, it's your fault."

They called in a doctor but he couldn't find a thing the matter with the boy.

Wade disappeared some time during that night.

They sent out a general alarm and notified the Bureau of Missing Persons. The papers all carried the story with the strong hint that he had been kidnaped. The newspaper reported the size of the Torland fortune, which was considerable, and everybody waited for the kidnapers to send their ransom note. When it didn't come, the Torlands, especially Mrs. Torland, were frantic.

HOME AGAIN

The Bureau of Missing Persons sent John Perelman up to talk to the parents. John had been a detective for 35 years. He knew all the facets of human nature and didn't expect too much of it. He talked to Mr. Torland for about 5 minutes. But Mrs. Torland fascinated him. He talked to her for an hour. At the end of that time, he went down to the corner drugstore and went into a booth and dialed Information.

"I want the telephone number of Ben Torland in Livingston, New Jersey," he said. When she gave it to him, he dropped two dimes in the slot and called the number. "Is this Mr. Ben Torland?" he inquired.

"Yes," answered Grandpa Torland.

"This is John Perelman, a detective of the Missing Persons Bureau. You have your grandson with you haven't you?"

"Yes, I have," Grandpa said defiantly, "and you can't do a damn thing to me. He came out here of his own free will and he likes it here better than he does at home. You tell that mother of his she isn't worthy of a fine boy like Wade. Taking his dog away from him! I saw the story in the papers but I thought I'd let her sweat for a day or two."

"Better bring Wade home, Mr. Torland," the detective grinned. "Bring the dog too. I don't think there will be any objections to keeping him."

There isn't, either, though that fool dog about tears the Torland apartment apart. His name is Sooner. Wade Torland is a changed boy. Everybody notices it.

For 60 years Pinkham's Compound has helped hundreds of thousands of women. Taken regularly thruout the month—Pinkham's Compound helps build up resistance against such distress. One medicine you can buy that's made especially for women.

Also in handy tablet form with added iron for women who also need to build up red blood. WORTH TRYING!

For free trial bottle tear this out and send with name and address to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., 142 Cleveland St., Lynn, Mass.

THE PHANTOM

Follow the Phantom in Colors in the Boston Sunday Advertiser

"Taps" Are Not for the Phantom

THE PHANTOM IS NEAR THE END OF HIS ROPE IN THE HERMETICALLY SEALED CHAMBER--CLOSE TO SUFFOCATION FOR LACK OF AIR—
SUDDENLY HE HEARS A FAINT TAPPING! TAP-TAP-TAP! IS IT THE POUNDING IN HIS HEAD, HE WONDERS? OR HIS CAPTORS OUTSIDE, TRYING TO TORMENT HIM?
THE TAPPING CONTINUES -- WEARILY, HE LOOKS ABOUT THE ROOM -- THE TAPPING SEEMS TO BE COMING FROM THE FLOOR!
THEN HE SEES ONE OF THE CLOSELY-FITTED FLOOR STONES SLOWLY RISE.

MONEY TO LOAN

You Can Get a $100 LOAN in 24 Hours

AND REPAY ONLY $6.41 A MONTH

We guarantee the payments shown in this loan and payment table to be the full amount you will pay back, when payments are made on schedule.

One price to all

These payments include charges at Household's rate of 2½% per month on that part of a balance not exceeding $100, and 2% per month on that part of a balance in excess of $100 which is less than the maximum permitted by the Small Loan Law and is the same to everyone. No endorsers on any loan. No credit inquiries of friends or relatives.

36 Master Milers, Inc., Set to Serve Up Record in N. Y.

By LEWIS BURTON

NEW YORK, Feb. 13—How's your blood stream today? Some connection apparently exists between the number of your red blood corpuscles and the time you are likely to make for the two-mile run, but I would not advise getting overly excited about it. For one thing, that might increase the number of leucocytes, thus knocking everything haywire. And, moreover, my personal investigation is barely begun, so I don't want any readers rushing out for a blood count to find out whether they're worth the usual rates commanded by amateur runners.

GREG RICE

Don Lash, the Indiana sleuth, provided a clue. The question was put squarely to Lash: Why is Greg Rice the absolute unconquerable tops among the two-milers? Don started by admitting he doesn't know, and then worked up to a conclusion.

"Dr. Sid Robinson was doing research on that sort of thing," he recalled. "Sid's out at Indiana now, but he was at Harvard when I set the world record. He put me through some tests, and he found I had more red blood corpuscles than any athlete he had ever examined. Glenn Cunningham had an unusual number of red corpuscles, too, but I had more.

"Well, a couple of weeks later, he tested me again. I was up higher than ever, and I ran a lousy race. Why? I'm human. That's the answer. I don't know where Greg stands on red corpuscles, but I know he's mentally adjusted to win. The theory that his lung capacity is his main strength is all wrong. We all develop pretty good lungs. Stamina involves the feeding of oxygen to the whole system, and that's where the red corpuscles come in."

This is very exciting, and just talking about such complicated scientific matters is very elevating, but I think the pretty young lass, who later on, interrupted a continuation of this subject, had the right idea.

"I don't know what the color or content of Lana Turner's corpuscles is," she said, "but I'll settle for the same quality and quantity."

Time Shows Real Merit of MacMitchell Win

FROM THEN ON it took a long time to get the conversation back to such an important subject as Leslie MacMitchell. It is only five years since, competing in his first race, he saw his first track meet, but it begins to look as if the future of the foot racing business around these parts will be closely intertwined with his development.

MacMitchell's 4:10.7 winning mile at Boston was clouded slightly by the fact that Walter Mehl, Chuck Fenske and John Munski, his victims, had raced the night before while he rested. But that cannot detract from the merit of the performance.

Too many people have been overly impressed by Cunningham's so-called world indoor record of a couple of years ago, when he ran a paced mile in four minutes, four and four-tenths seconds up at Dartmouth. Noses are turned up promiscuously at anything that doesn't compare with the famous "four-o-four-four," but observe that the A. A. U. guide's official list of records subtly brands Cunningham's mark a

SCHMIDT OUT OF LINEUP AS BRUINS SEEK RECORD

BEFORE THE BATTLE—Captain Dit Clapper, right, and Trainer Win Green of Bruins hold a dressing room chin session before facing the Rangers in New York. The Bruins hope this game will mark the entering of a new record in the books for having run up a string of twenty games without a defeat. Both teams are now tied at 19 each. The Rangers set their record a couple of years back but the Bruins are in the midst of their's.

NEW YORK, Feb. 13—Mentally primed but physically handicapped by the loss of their great center, Milt Schmidt, the Bruins await their all-important clash with the Rangers in the Garden tonight, confident its conclusion will find them possessors of a new record for consecutive games played without a defeat.

Schmidty, it is reported by Win Green, has had little success in working off a charley horse suffered late in Tuesday's Donnybrook with the Wings and will be of little, if any, help to his mates against the menacing Manhattanites.

Milt plans to dress and will give it all he's got, but in case he can't function, Art Ross plans to have "Stony" Jackson center for Woody Dumart and Bobby Bauer.

PLAY TO PROTECT RECORD

Comparative records over the latter part of the season show the Bruins to be an odds-on favorite to capture tonight's fray and break the record of being unbeaten in 19 games they currently enjoy jointly with their opponents.

The Rangers, however, are a classy outfit, which has failed to click, but can, now and again, come up with a beautiful performance.

Naturally they're plenty proud of their sharing the record which they held until the recent splurge of the Bruins carried them alongside, and will shoot the old college try at Les B's to keep them from shattering it.

BOUCHER CONFIDENT

As a matter of fact, Ranger Coach Frankie Boucher today made a flat prediction his club will stop the Bruins.

"We'll stop 'em," stated Boucher. "You can quote me on that."

It will take more than Frankie's prediction to stop the Bruins at their present pace, however, and Boucher refused to enter into any discussion as to how he was going to accomplish that little feat.

"Bear traps are what we need for those Bruins," he said, "but we'll stop 'em one way or another."

As was to be expected, Art Ross takes an exactly opposite view, and common sense seems to bear him out.

"You can take my word for it," Ross said, "this Bruin team will not be stopped tonight. It's a team loaded with spirit and they want this game too badly to muff it."

GARDEN SOLD OUT

Art knows the absence of Schmidt will hurt, but predicts the Cowley, Wiseman and Conacher line will be just twice as dangerous because of Schmidt's inability to play.

"These boys realize they will be handed an extra offensive burden if the Krauts aren't at full strength and you can wager a fedora they'll more than bear up under it."

This big town is already liberally sprinkled with Bostonians over to see tonight's clash and hundreds of others are expected on later trains.

Madison Square Garden is a sell-out, with Broadway shaken out of its attitude of blase indifference by the sensational streak of the Bruins.

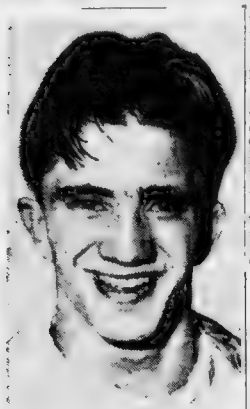
Bartolo Favored To Beat Salamone At Garden Tonight

By RINGSIDE

Salvatore Bartolo and George Salamone fight for the championship of East Boston tonight in a neighborhood grudge go which highlights the Goodwin A. C. program—the first professional fight show of 1941 hereabouts—at the Boston Garden.



GEORGE SALAMONE

Bartolo is a favorite, because he's been fighting and winning consistently in New York, where he has become an idol of the fans.

The Salamone-Bartolo scrap is listed for 10 rounds.

Two other 10-rounders are on the menu, with Abe Denner, the thin thumper from the West End, colliding with Honey Mellody, Charlestown, former New England 135-pound champion, and Johnny Hayes, Roxbury, and Bill Weinberg, Chelsea, mixing in a heavyweight wrangle.

Johnny Skhor, listed to fight Weinberg, was a recent victim of the wave of illness. He has an infected throat, so was forced to step out. Hayes and Weinberg provided

SAL BARTOLO

Fall River fans with a slugfest recently, finishing in a draw.

HOPPE OUT TO NAIL 3-CUSHION TITLE

CHICAGO, Feb 13 (AP)—Willie Hoppe steps out to clinch a share of a second consecutive world title in the three-cushion billiard field tonight.

And those who saw him uncork another of his customary rallies last night to overcome Allen Hall, believe that he will retain his crown.

His opponent will be Jay Bozeman, the young Vallejo, Cal., star, who saw his own championship chances jolted last night when he lost to Jake Schaefer, runnerup to Hoppe last year.

It was Welker Cochran who convinced the cue public Tuesday night that Hoppe could be beaten. However, Hoppe demonstrated last night that being subjected to two defeats in a row was something else again.

He came from behind a 12-point disadvantage just as he did against Joe Chamaco in an earlier match and won, 50 to 48 in 56 innings. A streak of remarkable shooting had carried Hall to a 44 to 32 lead in 35 frames, but thereafter his game faded. It was Hoppe's 14th triumph in 15 matches.

Hoppe and Schaefer wind up against each other tomorrow night.

The former high mark for the current meeting was 12, first set by Chamaco and equalled by Schaefer.

Reese Better Than Cobb?

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 13 AP)—Scout Ted McGrew of the Brooklyn Dodgers, while hacking his way out of an alligator nest with a sand wedge, declared:

"If nothing happens to Pee Wee Reese he is going to be the greatest all-around ball player I ever saw, and I don't except Ty Cobb or Hans Wagner or anybody else. This kid has everything. He's fast as Cobb ever was and has a better arm, and give him a ball up around his shoulders and he'll knock it out of sight. Furthermore, he's one of the nicest kids ever came into baseball."

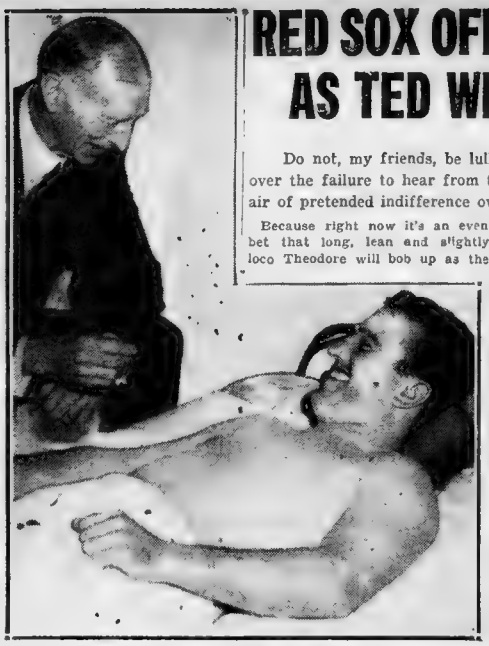
Reese is the fragile-looking little shortstop who played sparkling ball for the Dodgers until he smashed an ankle last season. He says the ankle is all right again, but he's still wearing a leather brace. That's probably what McGrew meant when he said, "If nothing happens to him."

The Dodgers are bunching up here preparatory to leaving tomorrow night for Havana to open their training camp. Bill Terry is out at Coral Gables awaiting the vanguard of his New York Giants. Unless there is a quick break in the weather they will do some of their preliminary training indoors.

Andover Six Upsets Favored Exeter, 2-1

Andover Academy turned the tables on its bitter rival Exeter, downing the latter's hockey six, 2 to 1, avenging last year's defeat, at the Skating Club rink, Cambridge.

Exeter scored first in the second period through the medium of Charlie Erdman but the victors would not be denied, coming back in the final stanza to tally twice. At Kittredge and Orrin Wood being the pair who were responsible for the victory.



RED SOX OFFICIALS PLENTY WORRIED AS TED WILLIAMS REMAINS SILENT

By FRANK FENWAY

Do not, my friends, be lulled into the idea the Red Sox front office isn't plenty worried over the failure to hear from their eccentric, but potent, outfielder, Teddy Williams, despite the air of pretended indifference over lack of word.

Because right now it's an even bet that long, lean and slightly loco Theodore will bob up as the 1941 season's most celebrated and stubborn holdout.

Teddy vowed on leaving Boston, which he so healthily hates, last fall that he planned on holding out on the Red Sox this season, but characteristically neglected to mention for what he was going to hold out.

His failure to either write or return his contract at this late date leads to the belief that Williams is carrying out exactly what he threatened.

NOT MONEY-HUNGRY

If that is the case the Sox master minds are in for a tussle. You can argue with a gent who wants a salary increase, twin beds or a left-handed catcher's mitt, but how in heck do you reason with a gent who's holding out simply because it seems like a fine idea.

Teddy isn't money-hungry. Numerous small acts of kindness he has performed toward field and club house attendants prove that.

Any differences he might have over salary could be easily adjusted, but what the management will have to fight is the intense desire of the youngster to be traded to a park where he will be able to draw a bead on the right field home run sector.

WOULD LIKE TO GO TO YANKS

You can bet a hat Williams would be the happiest ball player in the big leagues if he were a right hander with that short left field fence to wham them over.

But now, he sees powerful drives from his bat garnered by enemy outfields, and moodily watches gents with half his power drop pop flies into the left field net for the circuit.

What Teddy desires more than anything is to go to the Yankees where he could shoot for Babe Ruth's home run record right in the Bambino's old bailiwick.

ONLY FOR DI MAG OR FELLER

Teddy figures in his engagingly juvenile fashion that if he is ornery enough the Hose may trade him. Naturally, this can never, thankfully, come to pass.

He's too great a ball player for a team to relinquish no matter how much he may desire it. Imagine the drop in attendance at Fenway Park which would follow the announcement of the trade or sale of Williams to another club.

The only conceivable trades that could be made for the Kid would be even swaps for DiMaggio or Feller. But don't be alarmed folks. It can't happen here.

SAGE WORDS — Connie Mack, venerable skipper of Athletics, talks to hurler Chubby Dean, as he cools off in bed after a hot mineral bath at Carlsbad, Cal., where a number of the club's pitchers and catchers are getting in shape for their spring training grind which starts soon at Anaheim, Cal.

Bees Should Be Better, Larry MacPhail Says

NEW YORK, Feb. 13 (INS)—The National League can be divided into three parts this year, according to Larry MacPhail, the boss of the Dodgers.

Before shoving off for Florida and Cuba, Larry split the league into three sections, as follows: Cincinnati, Brooklyn and St. Louis in section No. 1; Chicago, Pittsburgh, Boston and New York in section 2 and Philadelphia in section 3.

"Don't quote me as picking the Phillies to finish in the cellar again," Larry pleaded. "You know I got in dutch picking them to finish there last year. Just say I expect them to wind up in the third section. It sounds better that way."

So there are the Phillies already in the basement without a dissenting voice raised in their behalf.

"I don't care to crawl out on a limb picking a pennant winner," Larry continued, "but I do insist that the race lies among the first three.

"My Dodgers are the best team in the leagu outside the pitching.

"N body knows how good the Cardinals may be but I'd like to take some of those young pitchers off their hands. The Cubs and Pirates are question marks. They may be no better than they were or they may be greatly improved. Both of them have their dubious spots.

"The Bees should be better. They have a lot of youngsters who will show much more than they did last year. As for the Giants, well, they could be the surprise of the league but I wouldn't care to bet on it.

Violets Find 600-Yard Star

NEW YORK, Feb. 13 (AP)—New York University is parked in an advantageous spot for the forthcoming I. C. 4-A. indoor track championships.

The Violets not only came out of their All-Metropolitan meet at the Bronx Coliseum with the team title, but uncovered a crack middle distance galloper in Harold Bogrow, who had been covered in the anonymity to relay running previously.

Bogrow entered the 600-yard competition against Fordham's Jack Campbell and rushed up at the finish to score a surprising victory in 1:12.7. The points he thus earned were the margin of N. Y. U.'s 49 to 41 lead over Columbia for the team honors.

Leslie MacMitchell of N. Y. U. ran off with the mile crown as usual, leaving Andy Neidnig of Manhattan behind with a great finishing spurt to win by eight yards in 4:14.3.

The Fordham mile-relay team turned in the season's fastest time for its event with a 3:19.5 clocking.

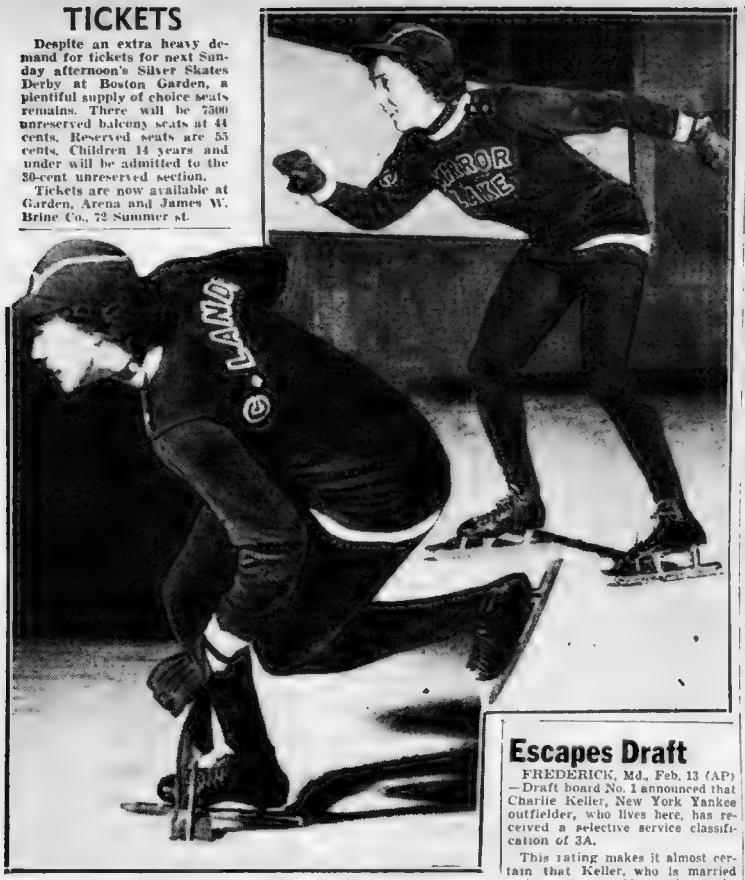
TICKETS

Despite an extra heavy demand for tickets for next Sunday afternoon's Silver Skates Derby at Boston Garden, a plentiful supply of choice seats remains. There will be 7500 unreserved balcony seats at 44 cents. Reserved seats are 55 cents. Children 14 years and under will be admitted to the 30-cent unreserved section.

Tickets are now available at Garden, Arena and James W. Brine Co., 72 Summer st.



SHE SWOOPS TO CONQUER—Carmelita Landry of Fitchburg, a former Silver Skates Derby champion, shows here the form which made her the current North American speed skating queen. Top, the crouch start, and below, the Speed-Ray camera "freezes" her as she rounds a turn at full speed. Miss Landry, who first won fame in the American-Record Derby, went on from there to win the nation's race throne. She'll skate at the annual ice classic Sunday afternoon in the Garden.

Ice Queen of Speed Returns to Scene Of 1st Big Triumph

By WALTER KILEY

In the role of America's "Queen of Speed," little Carmelita Landry of Fitchburg will return to the scene of her first big skating triumph when she rockets around the Boston Garden ice track at breathtaking pace in next Sunday afternoon's American-Record Silver Skates Derby.

Slim and [illegible] who sped to the Silver Skates Derby victory two years ago, the 23-year-old Fitchburg miss will create the stage for a special exhibition of [illegible] which very recently [illegible] as the country's greatest speed skating [illegible].

It will be New England versus North America, also [illegible] when that Canada will come back to the Silver Skates fold, the only New Englander ever to win the United States speed skating crown—man or woman.

She will be an honored passenger on this brilliant occasion skating the gallery ace-in with Miss Megan Taylor of London, world's figure skating champion, Phil Taylor, Megan's masterful trick skating daddy, George von Burgen of Zurich, Switzerland, stunt skating champion of Europe, Ed Scholan of London and Victoria the fancy skating wizard and the many others who will make this year's Silver Skates Derby an outstanding carnival classic.

HAMPERED BY INJURY

Miss Landry's rise to a foremost place in sports was a meteoric one, but nonetheless a battle every inch of the journey. First she had to conquer physical impairments whichwould have daunted a less courageous person and had to force herself to make public appearances because of them.

As a youngster living in Boston, she lost the sight of her right eye when a gasoline explosion made her a victim. Several operations have restored some sight to the optic, but only partially, so that she is still handicapped in her skating particularly when a rival attempts to pass her on the outside [illegible] which reason she has made it a practice to hang back and then come through with a mighty sprint into the finish.

STILL IMPROVING

"Miss Landry will crack every record in the speed skating books," said the much-impressed Henry Kemper, manager of the 1936 American Olympic team, as he witnessed Carmelita storm through to tremendous title victories in the nationals at La Crosse, Wis., a fortnight ago.

"She reminds me very much of Kit Klein at her best," Kemper remarked. "She's got that same powerful kick at the finish. Miss Landry will improve for the next three years. She's just now beginning to develop her true greatness."

Carmelita will be warmly welcomed by the huge Boston Garden audience in her first official skating appearance since her clean-sweep triumphs. And she is proud of the fact that her victory in the 1939 Silver Skates Derby inspired her with a full margin of confidence and courage to carry on to even greater glory.

WON ON SECOND ATTEMPT

CANADIAN LANCE CORPORAL WINS FIGURE SKATING CROWN

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 13 (AP)—A 21-year-old Canadian lance corporal, who expects to sail this summer with his artillery regiment for duty in the Battle of Britain, rules today as North American figure skating king.

In one of the most dramatic finishes in the history of the competition, Ralph McCreath cut down the commanding lead of the United States title holder, Eugene Turner, and carried off the North American crown last night by the bare margin of eight-tenths of a point.

McCreath, who also holds the Canadian championship, executed a daring free style performance to run up 1575.8 points to Turner's 1575.

It was a heart-breaking defeat for the 20-year-old American who taught himself to skate. Turner, of Los Angeles, Cal., had been favored to win the title when he gained a lead of 31.2 points over McCreath in the school figures yesterday.

The six judges split on votes for first place. The points then decided the championship.

The new champion, a senior at the University of Toronto and a lance corporal with the 48th Highlanders, succeeds Montgomery Wilson, also of Canada, who turned professional.

Mary Rose Thacker, 18-year-old Winnipeg skater, annexed the women's singles title for the second successive year.

McCreath and Eleanor O'Meara of the Toronto Skating Club, won the pairs championship while the Americans were saved from a shutout when the U. S. pairs' champions from St. Paul—Mary Lou Premer, Jeannette Ahrens, Robert Uppgren and Lyman Wakefield—won the fours title.

Major Leaguers Draw Bead on Judge Landis

By SID MERCER

NEW YORK, Feb. 13 (INS)—An ultimatum will shortly be handed to Judge Landis, commissioner of baseball.

It may be couched in the form of a request, but it is none the less an ultimatum.

Major league club owners who feel that the commissioner has invaded their property rights with his recent edict affecting many players brought up for trial next spring are ready to fight. In fact, the fight is already on today and it's a dandy undercover affray.

The issue is whether Landis is empowered to write into the national agreement interpretations of rules that make him a baseball legislator instead of an executive.

Last winter the commissioner became involved in the famous "seven points" embroglio and was eventually induced to tone down his demands. Some baseball men insist that the judge did a complete "about face" when the pressure was applied. The official statement indicated a compromise.

COMMITTEE NAMED

The National League appointed a committee to deal with Landis on the new issue, which revolves around the commissioner's right to expose certain players to waivers and the possibility of valuable prospects, though not ready for the big time, being claimed by cheap second division clubs.

President Ford Frick heads this committee. Frick is leaving for Florida at the end of this week and some time in early March will be near the Southern retreat where Commissioner Landis hibernates.

Larry MacPhail, of the Dodgers, is also heading South. He will go to Clearwater, Fla., after a sojourn in Havana.

Horace Stoneham and Leo Bondy, of the Giants, departed for the American tropics last week.

YAWKEY NEARBY

Ed Barrow, of the Yankees, will arrive in St. Petersburg on March 7.

Tom Yawkey, of the Red Sox; Spike Briggs, of the Detroit Tigers, and Alva Bradley, of the Cleveland Indians, will all be within short motoring distances from the lair of Landis next month. With Barrow they represent the strong American League clubs with farm affiliations.

Sam Breadon, of the Cardinals, and Powel Crosley, Jr., of the Cincinnati Reds, will be on the Florida west coast during March. With the New York and Brooklyn clubs they represent an important National League bloc.

So far as is known the American League has not taken an official stand. However, some of the clubs vitally interested have outlined their objections to disturbance of the waiver balance—and these demurrers either have been or soon will be presented to the commissioner at his Bellair winter quarters.

The leagues may not be united in this movement because of the desire of the weaker clubs to snatch material developed by winning clubs. A $100,000 prospect might thus be grabbed for the waiver price of $7500 and there would be nothing to prevent resale to a winning club at the market price.

LEAGUES UNITED

The leagues, however, stand together in limiting the authority of the commissioner. Judge Landis has been re-elected for five more years, but this is the last year of the present national agrement.

It will be rewritten next winter and the commissioner's powers restricted and clearly defined.

Spokesmen for the minors say the new waiver wrinkle, proposed and apparently adopted by Judge Landis without the formality of a vote, will obstruct the development of players, lower prices on minor league talent and discourage farm systems which now are the backbone of minor league ball.

Certain powerful major league clubs are preparing not only to wage a bitter fight on the Landis edict but to take the commissioner into court, if necessary, to protect property rights.

ton Garden Monday night when the Irish-American A. A. sponsors a tri-city tournament, showing top-ranking amateurs from Cleveland and Philadelphia trading punches with one of the best teams ever to represent Boston in such a show.

Bouts will be held in six classes, featherweights through heavyweights.

In addition, arrangements have been made for a special bout of five two-minute rounds between Lester McGowan, youthful Buffalo puncher, who won the National All-America title at the Garden last month, and Orlando aFnti, Lynn, the New England and Eastern All-America king.

Fight fans are steamed up over competition in welterweight and light heavyweight divisions. Plenty of leather will be thrown by the battlers in these classes.

Dave Andrews of Lowell, N. E. and Eastern All-America champion and winner of the Diamond Belt title last Monday night, will be one of the standard bearers of the Hub with Willard Buckless of Saugus as his teammate.

Philadelphia will have Sigmund Koblinski, the Quaker City Diamond Belt champion and one of the finest 147-pounders ever to come out of the Middle Atlantic Ass'n.

Johnny Lawer, who represented Cleveland in the National A. A. U. championships at Boston last spring, will swing for his city.

Green Five Rolls On

NEW YORK, Feb. 13 (AP) — Dartmouth keeps rolling along toward its fourth consecutive Eastern Intercollegiate Basketball League championship and if the Indians are going to be sidetracked, some rival will have to be exceptionally hot.

Yale couldn't do it last night, although the Elis have perked up some in recent weeks. With Gus Broberg banging in 15 points, Dartmouth simply overwhelmed Yale 63-41 to continue unbeaten in five league games.

At one time the Indians held a 54 to 22 advantage, but they mercifully inserted a collection of substitutes and eased off at the finish.

CORNELL GETS LAST CHANCE

Cornell's second-place Big Reds will have another chance Saturday and this may represent the last ditch stand of the rest of the circuit against the leaders.

The Reds were idle last night but the other league members were active.

Columbia strengthened its grip on third place with a magnificent rally that punctured Penn 50-39 and Princeton nosed out Harvard 36-32 in overtime to rise out of the cellar.

TIGERS NIP HARVARD

In Columbia's contest, the Lions trailed at half-time 28-18 but shot out in front in the second period when Stew McIlvennan netted 13 points in short order. It was Columbia's third victory in four games.

Princeton and Harvard both came up to their game without a single win in league competition, and it took a long arching field goal by Dan Carmichael halfway through the overtime period to put the Tigers in front to stay.

Princeton led 23-18 at the half, but the count was tied at the end of the regular playing time 32-32.

DiMag Worth 45 G's, Mickey Cochrane Says

By The Associated Press

Add old Notre Damers who don't want Elmer Layden's job—Jimmy Phelan of Washington . . . The Yanks haven't heard a word from Joe DiMaggio and probably won't so long as Mickey Cochrane goes around the coast telling the papers Joe is worth 45 grand per . . . . Jack Dempsey calls New York nightly from Miami to inquire about his estranged wife who is seriously ill.

Not more than a dozen or so of Priv. Tommy Tailer's buddies in the Quartermaster's Corps at Fort Dix, N. J., have tumbled to the fact that he not only is a top golfer, but a millionaire to boot . . . Larry MacPhail had an Irish Terrier in the Garden dog show.

Eddie Brannick of the Giants and Bobby Feller sat at adjoining tables in a New York club the other night. If they recognized each other, neither nodded . . . Jimmy Braddock is schooling a young heavy, Freddie Fitzgerald, 21-year-old Hoboken dock worker, who'll be unveiled as a pro in a few months . . . Notre Dame and New York U. Quints will pay to the seventh full house in the Garden tomorrow night . . . Philly papers are taking Louis vs. Dorazio so seriously one of 'em is printing the story of Dorazio's life, written by the eminent author, Mr. Dorazio, himself.

The U. of Georgia cagers seem to be the gas house gang of the Southeastern Conference . . . One Bulldog tangled with a Florida player . . . Another went at it with a Tennessee player . . . Two others charged the referee after the Auburn game . . . Serious trouble was averted when husky Auburn gridders flanked the Bulldogs and marched them from the court.

The Birmingham Barons of the Southern Association are the first minor league team to check in with a player roster . . . Maybe one reason Buck Shaw of Santa Clara asked to be withdrawn from consideration for the Notre Dame job is that Mrs. Buck said: "I'd rather live in a tent in California than a castle in Indiana."

Al (Bummy) Davis has taken on 30 pounds since he fought Fritzie Zivic 12 weeks ago . . . Looks as if they'd have to call out the fire department to stop the Loyola (New Orleans) basketball team . . . How about a N. Y. Garden bid, Mr. Irish;; also one for the U of Arkansas Razorbacks.

Out in Seattle, the Franklin High School quint has printers and radio announcers dizzy with a starting lineup that consists of Opacich, Rayovich, Duranceau, Hjelmaa and Saalwaechter.

Pirates Release Grid Ace Parker

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 13 (INS)—Clarence "Ace" Parker, 28, who gained fame as a halfback for the Brooklyn Dodgers in the National Professional Football League last season, has been released from the Pittsburgh baseball club, President Bill Benswanger said today.

"Ace" has been released to the Portsmouth, Va., club in the Piedmont League, whence he came to the Pirates, because, said Benswanger, he would only agree to sign with the Pirates on condition that he be allowed to continue with football after Aug. 15. Frank D. Lawrence, of the Portsmouth team, said "Ace" would be a playing manager.

Labrot Boat Again Wins Ocean Race

NASSAU, Bahamas, Feb. 13 (AP)—William H. Labrot's Stormy Weather won the Miami-to-Nassau yacht race today for the fifth time in the eight-year history of the blue water sailing event.

The veteran Stormy finished the race almost two hours after the scratch boat, Henry Fownes' 72-foot yawl Escapade, but won on corrected time after the handicap was deducted.

Escapade, with an elapsed and corrected time of 35 hours, 25 minutes, 8 seconds, was second in the official result.

Stormy Weather's corrected time was 35 hours, 12 minutes, 8 seconds, although the yacht needed 37 hours, 23 minutes, 36 seconds to make the 184-mile trip.

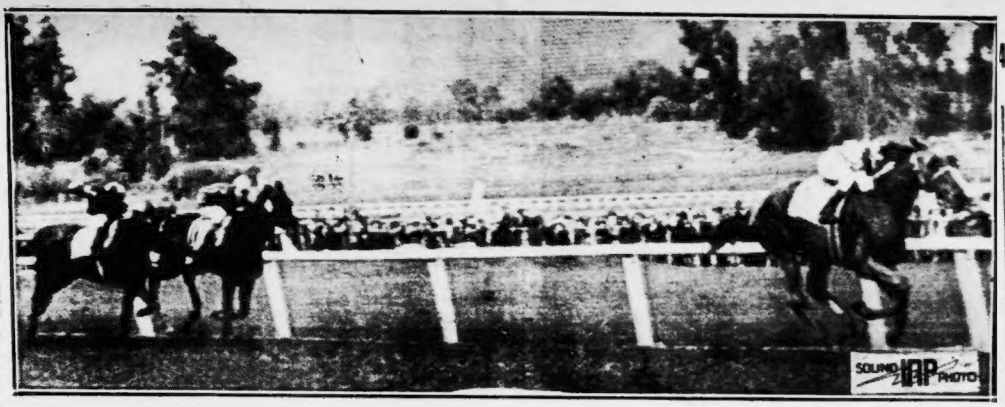
MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 13 (AP)—Mrs. Fred C. Eaton, Jr., wife of the skipper of the yacht Marpatcha, reported aground off the Cuban coast, said today the vessel's destination was the Virgin Islands.

She said Capt. Eaton and a crew of seven, including the skipper's father, were the only persons aboard. The Eatons, of Deer Isle, Me., had been visiting here.

The 60-ton Marpatcha, she said, was en route to St. Thomas to take aboard the owner, Charles Deere Wiman of Chicago.

CARDS SIGN BROWN

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 13 (AP—Infielder Jimmy Brown has signed a 1941 contract for his fith year in the majors with the St. Louis Cardinals, the club announced today. A native of Jamesville, N. C., he hit .280 last season.



ROMPING home five lengths in front, just as the experts said he would, Porter's Cap wins the $50,000 Santa Anita Derby for owner Charles (Seabiscuit) Howard. Bull Reigh is second and Copperman third.

Angel Pins Ben Morgan

Before the largest crowd of the season, some 8000 fans, Maurice Tillet, so-called The Angel, retained his heavyweight wrestling title last night, taking two out of three falls from Ben Morgan at the Arena.

The Angel captured the opening fall in 18:14 with his celebrated "bear hug"; lost the second fall to Morgan in 7:36 by an upright crotch, body lift and slam, then came back to take the deciding fall in 3:22, when his opponent was counted out by Referee Bruno.

The semi-final saw the Green Dragon force Sam Manecher to surrender in 28:55 with a reverse toe-hold. In the other bouts, Abe Kashey pinned Heinie Olsen; Marven Westenberg slammed Jack Wagner and Pantaleon Manlapig defeated George Linehan.

PORTER'S CAP MAY PASS UP $100,000 RACE FOR DERBY

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 13 (AP)—Mr. Charlie Howard, the wealthy San Francisco horse owner, has quite a problem.

He doesn't know whether to shoot a double-barrelled threat at a $100,000 purse, or save one barrel and aim it at more glory than gold.

Howard's crac Porter's Cap thoroughly thumped a field of the finest three-year-olds campaigning in the West yesterday when he won the $50,000 Santa Anita Derby.

IN LIGHT GOR 'CAP

The distance was a mile and one-eighth. Porter's Cap carried the usual Derby weight for this event of 120 pounds, and his rider, Jockey Leon (Buddy) Haas, declared he had plenty of run left—for a mile and one-quarter, if need be.

The point is that the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap March 1 is to be run at a mile and one quarter, and so is the famed Kentucky Derby later this spring. Porter's Cap is weighted at a mere 104 for the Santa Anita Handicap, and the Kentucky Derby scale is 126 for colts.

Howard is perplexed. He doesn't know whether to send Porter's Cap into the big Handicap here and try to win his third cup—and huge pot of gold—in the event, or perhaps say: Porter's Cap for the less rich Kentucky Derby and other engagements for three-year olds that will follow.

RACE TRUE TO FORM

Poor, but lucky, Mr. Howard. He already has one top candidate for the Santa Anita Handicap. That is Mioland. Should he send Porters Cap in, too? Howard frankly is in a quandary. Previous to yesterday's Derby, however, he had intimated he would gun for the Handicap prize with Mioland alone. He may change his plans.

As for yesterday's race. It was perhaps the most truly run of the Derby history. Porter's Cap proved he was the best colt in the field. Ably ridden, he moved from fifth place on the backstretch to collar Bull Reigh when ordered, leaving the pace setting Madigama to fade back, far out of the money.

CARSON HOLDS SWIM MARK

Philip Carson, Brown University freshman, today held a new New England A. A. A. U. senior 220-yard free style swimming record.

The tank star shaved his old record by nearly a second in negotiating the distance in 2 minutes, 16.5 seconds. Edward Hall, of the Worcester Y. M. C. A., was second.

One for Books! A Double K. O.

DETROIT, Feb. 13 (AP)—Boxing turned in one for the books last night, a double technical knockout.

When a fight between welterweights Sammy Secreet of Pittsburgh and Pat Carroll of Detroit had gone half way through the seventh round here at Naval Armory, Detroit, with both men bleeding profusely it was halted.

A state boxing commission physician jumped into the ring and demanded it be stopped. Referee Clarence Rosen ruled it a "double technical knockout."

Master Milers Ready To Serve Up Record

freak, made under unusual conditions, and lists as indoor records the 4:07.4 that the Old Master made once and Fenske twice.

I believe the foursome composing Master Milers, Inc., all can whittle the competitive record down a few pegs today, tomorrow, possibly Saturday at the New York A. C. games. It's only a matter of hitting the right pace, particularly in the third quarter.

Incidentally, the competitors and some promoters become distressed whenever you talk about mile records. They think it places too great an emphasis on time and not enough on the race. That's right, in a way. But the mile's the thing. It makes packed houses. If Mike Jacobs were running a track meet he would announce his mile as the main event and the rest of the program as "the underneath" or supporting card.

In the privacy of their own boudoirs the promoters often wish it didn't exist. Yet I know of only two cases in which other events were accountable for season-long success of track operations. Paavo Nurmi, galloping over all odd routes in 1925, was one. Charley Hoff, boosting the pole vault record an inch at a time the next season, was another.

Promoters Can't Displace Mile as Feature

THE TROUBLE with the classic distance is that it has built up heroes with a fine sense of values. They demand and get big fees. As a rule, the promoters, far from being parsimonious skinflints, pay out ungrudgingly. In several cases money is no object. Others like to turn over a tidy profit. I believe the New York Chapter K. of C. meet is the only one run for private profit, though only partly.

A few years ago it looked as if the Casey meet would have to fold up for want of financing. The Madison Square Garden Corp. generously decided to see them through on a 50-50 basis, at the same time filling an otherwise empty date. The combination worked so well that the K. of C. soon was in a position to withdraw from the agreement and step out on its own. But did it? The Garden Corp., controlling the arena, said in effect.

"We were partners in the lean days, and partners we remain, or else."

When amateur track is operated as a business, amateur runners demand their just fees. But I don't suggest that any of the present milers are stickups. They are only becoming oriented this season. They will be around again as a group for four or five years perhaps, and by then—also perhaps—they may need inducements to continue in competition.

The New York A. C. has striven hard and long to displace the mile as its feature, and thought it had succeeded. As a special opponent for stocky, 5 feet, 4½ Greg Rice it singled out little Mel Trutt of Indiana. It should be a race. But then, Saturday night, MacMitchell, New York University's homebred, scored his first victory over Master Milers, Inc., on a spiked shoe track.

This 20-year-old, 158-pound, 5-feet-11 smiling college junior is the boy they'll be buying tickets to see. The sale was off badly last week. The two-mile didn't click. It will boom this week. The interesting aspect of it is that MacMitchell is an amateur, strictly. He's young and he'd run even if they paid him off in bread crumbs and bottle tops.

HANLEY RADULSKI

B. U. CAPTAIN—A Reading boy, George Radulski, is the new football leader of the Terriers of Boston University for next season. Radulski receives congratulations from Head Coach Pat Hanley at annual B. U. sports banquet.

B. U. ELECTS READING BOY GRID LEADER

George Radulski, 21-year-old right tackle from Reading, is the captain of Boston University's 1941 football squad, it was announced at the annual sports banquet last night.

The announcement kept secret right up to the affair came as a surprise in view of the fact that there were 12 juniors eligible and speculation was pretty much divided. Radulski, however, proved to be a very popular choice.

Radulski, 175-pound junior at the University's School of Education, captained the Reading High team in 1937 and alternated at right tackle with John Wedemyer until the latter quit the team in mid-season, when Radulski took over the first-string work alone.

De Ormand "Tuss" McLaughry, feature speaker and new Dartmouth head coach, mentioned negotiations under way for a series of B. U.-Dartmouth games, and praised football as a sport that nurtures the typical American trait of enthusiasm.

Dr. Harmon made university awards to coaches, captains and managers in 14 minor sports.

Football insignias were awarded to:

MORRO LUKACHIK TOCZYLOWSKI

New B. C. Grid Captain Says Brothers Better

Twenty-year-old Alfred Morro, who thinks that he's "about the fourth best athlete in a family of seven children," will captain the Boston College eleven next fall. John Pieroni of Somerville is the new manager. They were elected by the vote of 34 Sugar Bowl letter winners.

Morro, a 200-pound right tackle, succeeds the numerous "game" captains who led Boston College on the gridiron last season.

A resident of Providence, R. I., and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Morro, the youthful giant, by the election, was permitted to enjoy his second football captaincy. He was captain and All-State tackle at Providence Central in 1937.

Morro is another of those rare student-athlete combinations. Al, who is studying for a Bachelor of Science in Education degree and majoring in Spanish, has been a consistent "B" student since his entrance at Boston College.

DISCUS TITLE HOLDER

Besides his standout ability on the gridiron, the young fellow who bested Veteran John Yauckoos for first string rating at right tackle during the past season, is also an important track team item.

At the present time he holds a pair of discus championships, the National A. A. U. Junior, won at Fresno, Calif., and the New England A. A. U. titles. The latter he has held for three years.

Morro didn't start his high school athletic career until he had reached his junior year. Previous to that time he had been forced to attend afternoon classes which eliminated any chance he had of participating in sports.

He made his first appearance in a high school football uniform in 1936. A year later he was captain of the team and an All State tackle. In the spring of his senior year he blossomed as a championship discus thrower.

BROTHERS BETTER

Despite all this he hasn't come around to considering himself the best athlete in the Morro family.

"I doubt that I'll ever be able to consider myself the family's leading athlete," he said. "My older brother, Joe, who never had a chance to participate in organized sport, is a much better athlete than I'll ever be.

"Joe, however, didn't get a chance to show his worth. He worked when he was in high school. (Then, thoughtfully) "We owe a lot to Joe."

At the present time Morro's younger brothers are participating in sports at Central High School (that's where Bill and Joe Osmanski first attracted attention).

"They both have better high school records than I had when at Central," said the Eagle captain-elect.

Queen of Speed Will Perform At Skates Derby

the final turn and down the home stretch into the finish line. But my skate caught a bad spot in the ice and I fell, my momentum carrying me just three inches short of the finish. Beatrice Amann of Meriden, Ct., flashed past to win the race as I vainly tried to shove myself along the scant distance.

"Naturally I was heartbroken. But I then and there determined to return the following year and win the title. And I did. And right there and then I was committed to winning the nationals.

"I can't underestimate the great good the Silver Skates Derby accomplishes particularly for younger girls and boys. It is a glorious opportunity for them and I'm certain that many of Sunday's field will some day be national headliners."

GRAND SLAM

Carmelita's great courage and her competitive spirit were proven at La Crosse when she was shut out of the 220-yard sprint, the first of five events she competed in. She felt certain she won it but the judges ruled her third and out of the money. Philosophically Miss Landry came back and won the next four events on the program with five to 25 yards victory margin.

She made a "grand slam" of the North American championships at Schenectady, N. Y., last week, falling on the second last lap of the ¼ mile race, dropping 50 yards back of the leaders, getting up and then racing on to pass the pack and win by a goodly 10 yards.

Eleonora Sears In Quarter Finals

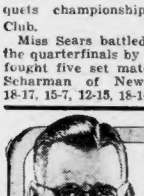
Miss Eleonora Sears, Boston sportswomen, today had gained the quarterfinal round of the Women's National Squash Racquets championship at Harvard Club.

Miss Sears battled her way into the quarterfinals by taking a hard-fought five set match from Frida Scharman of New York, 11-15, 18-17, 15-7, 12-15, 18-14.

Andy Ponzi Stars In Billiard Play

Andy Ponzi, defending champion, displayed rare form in the night game played at Shanley's Recreation Parlors on Washington st., when he put together the second highest run of the billiard tournament, a 99 to defeat Boston's Joe Procita in five innings, 125 to 25.

Friday will bring Willie Mosconi, the present leader in this year's contest, to Boston.



End Constipation Worry
